PETITION CITY COUNCIL TO NOMINATE GILHULY

Document Points Out Why Former Official Should Be Given Position

Petition for the appointment of S. S. Gilhuly to the City Council to fill the vacancy created by the failure of F. L. Muhleman to qualify for the office today was being generally circulated throughout the city and will probably be presented to the City Council at its session on Thursday morning.

The petition points out that Muhleman declared himself ineligible and that Gilhuly received the highest number of votes cast for any candidate for council except those elected to office. It also declares that Gilhuly is morally entitled to the appointment and that he is best fitted for the office by reason of his experience and ability.

Former Councilman S. A. Davis last Thursday declared in a statement before the City Council that he had "received legal advice" to the effect that Gilhuly was the legally-elected councilman following Muhleman's declaration that he could not take the oath of office because he had not been a qualified elector in Glendale for one year next preceding the date of election. Muhleman received the second highest number of votes cast in the election for councilmen.

Council Is Waiting

The City Council has announced its intention of waiting for the expiration of the fifteen-day period following notification of Muhleman of his election, when he is automatically made ineligible to take the oath if he has not already done so. It is expected that the appointment of the fifth member of the council will be made at the first meeting thereafter to be held next Tuesday morning.

The Gilhuly petition follows:

"To the Honorable City Council:

"Whereas, Councilman-elect F. L. Muhleman has declared himself ineligible to take the oath of office, thereby creating a vacancy in the City Council; and

"Whereas, S. S. Gilhuly received the highest number of votes cast for any candidate for council except those elected to office; and

"Whereas, S. S. Gilhuly was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of W. A. Horn, thereby giving him an op-

FEAR HINDENBURG ON DAWES PLAN

President-elect Of Germany Called 'Greatest Menace' To Finance Project

By FRANK T. MASON
For International News Service.

PARIS, April 28.—That Hindenburg constitutes the greatest menace to the functioning of the Dawes plan was the general opinion in givernment circles today. French statesmen were confident that S. Gilbert Parker, agent general of the reparations committee, will now find obstacles thrust in his path which will cut down receipts and thereby cripple the machinery of the plan.

The foreign office stated frankly that even before the election, the French government was convinced that the real sentiment of the Germans was just what they expressed at the polls, but admitted its great surprise that the Germans dared come out with it.

Indications were that one of the first acts of Hindenburg would be to try to effect a closer relation with France, the foreign office said, but Poland would be excluded from these friendly dealings, which would compel France to have recourse to the Versailles terms.

In answer to the charge of David Lloyd George, former British premier, that the election of Hindenburg was the result of French policy in the Ruhr, the foreign office pointed out that Marx, Hindenburg's opponent, received more than two million majority in the Rhineland and Ruhr.

"If America, France and England are surprised at the result of the German election, we have official information that Germany herself is hardly able to believe and understand it," it was stated at the foreign office.

'GET TO WORK' WAR LORD'S PROGRAM

Former Kaiser Mum When Hindenburg's Victory Reaches Doorn

BULLETIN

HANOVER, Germany, April 28.—It was learned here that President-elect Hindenburg, in an hour's conference with Chancellor Luther today, told Luther that he would ask the cabinet to remain in office.

By S. D. WEYER
For International News Service.

HANOVER, April 28.—With military precision the former Field Marshal and now President-Elect Paul von Hindenburg let it be known today that his policy will be summed up in three graphic words:

"Get to work."

This was the news after Chancellor Luther talked an hour this morning with the new president of the German republic. Chancellor Luther communicated to the 77-year-old executive the thanks of the nation and congratulations in his own behalf.

Vital points of Germany's policy were discussed by the now two most important figures in European politics. In addition, they talked over formalities of the coming inauguration. Since Hindenburg has a personal dislike for ovations, it was indicated there would be very little of pomp and ceremony which usually go with such an occasion.

Luther Assured

The constitution provides that the chancellor and cabinet minister shall place their portfolios at the disposal of the president. But the close of the conference between President-Elect Hindenburg and Chancellor Luther was taken by political observers to mean that Luther would continue to occupy that office.

Immediate changes in other ministers also was said to be unlikely. With Luther remaining in office the policy to which Germany has adhered for the last year would continue for a strict observance of the Dawes plan has been a feature of his administration.

The revised official figures showed the following:

Hindenburg 14,648,775.
Marx 13,760,089.
Thaelmann 1,931,635.
Other candidates 21,896.

These figures gave Hindenburg a plurality of 888,684.

Marx' strength in the Berlin was brought out in the analysis, he having received a plurality of 269,680. What the politicians have to say about Hindenburg's victory was expected to be bared when the Reichstag begins its sessions today. The exact date of

The Isis made a run for shore and was beached just as she was about to sink. The passenger list of the Isis is made up of five San Franciscans. The number of men in the crew is not known.

Germany Gets Back Again To Normalcy

BERLIN, April 28.—Germany began today to turn its thought and attention back to the traditional church, children and kitchen, but with the question firmly implanted in its minds "where are we now that General von Hindenburg has been elected president?"

The only definite answer Germany could find to this question was that as president, "the old man of the lakes" was going to put the nation to work. And this opinion, freely voiced in the street, appeared to meet with popular approval.

The first reaction after it was apparent that Hindenburg was elected, came from that half of Germany which did not vote for him. That half wondered what the other half could bring about in putting into office a man assumed to be strongly monarchistic and a devoted servitor of the former Kaiser Wilhelm. Brief utterances which have come from Hindenburg since Sunday have indicated he has only a remote thought that the nation can ever return to a monarchy.

PRESIDENT IS SILENT ON ELECTION

Question of Congratulating Hindenburg Undecided At Cabinet Meet

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The question of whether President Coolidge is going to send a cablegram of congratulations to Field Marshal van Hindenburg upon his election to the presidency of Germany, remained undecided here today following the cabinet meeting. None has thus far been dispatched and efforts to ascertain whether one will be sent proved futile. President Coolidge informed callers at the White House today that he did not care to comment on the German election in any way.

This matter of congratulating von Hindenburg upon his election seemingly is a delicate one, not only for the United States, but for other foreign governments. None has yet come forward with well wishes for the man who but comparatively few years ago was regarded as the epitome of German militarism. So far as is known in Washington it is understood that the matter is a subject of considerable controversy in international circles.

From the standpoint of international courtesy and amity, congratulations of a new ruler or chief executive is usually a matter of mere formality. For instance, President Coolidge received upwards of sixty messages of congratulations last November

FLEETS WAIT DECISION OF UMPIRES

Army, Navy Forces Prepare To 'Learn Lesson' Of Mimic Warfare

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Conflicting reports as to "who won the war" in the Hawaiian naval maneuvers, led the navy department today to cable Vice-Admiral Coontz, chief of umpires, to advise Washington at once the decision of the judges.

By WILLIAM G. CAYCE
For International News Service.

HONOLULU, April 28.—America's army and navy forces prepared today to "learn the lesson" taught by the greatest mimic naval attack in history.

The umpires of the maneuvers off Hawaii, who saw the "blue" or attacking forces attempt to wipe off the map the "black" or defending forces, were discussing the mimic naval attack, preparatory to calling of the grand critique at which official findings will be announced.

High navy officers said the critique would probably not be called for several days, giving the officers of the United States fleet an opportunity to discuss the maneuvers from all angles.

Both Claim Victory

Both sides were busy claiming victory, the "blues" asserting that the island defenses had proved inadequate and that only gun fire from destroyers could properly defend Hawaii, while the "blacks" were claiming their aerial attack had blown the main attacking fleet of the "blue" forces out of the sea.

The umpires announced that the "blues" delivered their main attack against the "blacks" in the vicinity of Haleiwa, preceded by a secondary attack at Bardois point and a "feint" attack at Mauahua bay.

The three attacks were characterized by preparatory bombardment of the beaches, the gun fire of the "blues" successfully driving the "blacks" from certain points.

Blue Troops Landed

At Haleiwa the attack resulted in the landing of many "blue" troops despite heavy casualties. A heavy surf made landing difficult.

The attackers met heavy gun fire from the defense forces, hidden in the cane fields. A honeycomb of machine guns and rifles and mobile artillery was used by the "black" forces in the defense against the mighty onrush of the "blues."

Defense Airplanes

Defense airplanes were responsible for the showing of the "black" forces in the mimic fighting.

From the clouds the "black" airplanes showered disaster as the "enemy" attempted to land 2000 marines under Major-General Wendell C. Neville.

Assisted by the fire of shore guns which fired salvo after salvo,

Return to Gold Standard Big Business Help

WASHINGTON, April 28. The proposed return of Great Britain to a gold standard was hailed at the treasury department today as the most significant reconstruction step taken since the Dawes plan was adopted.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and D. R. Crissinger, chairman of the federal reserve board, declared the psychological effect on world business and finances would be vastly more important than the actual movement of gold resulting from the order.

LONDON, April 28.—High spots in the first budget presented to parliament by Winston Churchill today included:

Return to gold standard announced.

Gold bullion exportation permitted.

Surplus 1924 of 3,659,000 pounds sterling.

RIGHTFUL POLICY TOLD BY HUGHES

Former Secretary of State Defends Commercial Reciprocity Idea

NEW YORK, April 28.—Unconditioned and unbiased commercial reciprocity with Germany was defended as the highest type of American diplomacy in an address by former Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes today. He was speaking to the State Chamber of Commerce, to which he had just been admitted as a member.

"When another government is willing to give us reciprocally, equal-nation treatment for vessels in foreign trade, we should be willing to make a like agreement," Hughes said, referring to the German-American trade treaty and the influences brought to bear when it was under Senate consideration.

He said reservations in the German-American trade treaty left the way open for a change in its reciprocal arrangements, but predicted the time would never come when we would make that change.

French exchange was strong. Francs were quoted at 5.22 for demand and 5.22½ for cables. This was an advance of 2½ points.

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service.

LONDON, April 28.—In a session marked with cheering and jeering, Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, indicated in the House of Commons today that the government would return to the gold standard and, further, that the Bank of England would be permitted to export gold bullion.

The occasion of the chancellor's declaration was his address to Commons on the subject of the budget. It was believed by some members that he was delaying important phases of his speech until the market had closed.

England has not been on a gold basis since the early days of the war. When Great Britain entered the war one of its first acts was to prohibit the exportation of gold.

A return to the gold basis would mean governmental and private obligations would be payable in gold.

"The government is convinced," said Churchill, "that our financial position justifies a return to the gold standard.

"It is necessary, too, that the policy of debt repayment be continued. I propose that we raise the sinking fund to its statutory limits."

Budget Increases

Churchill's budget calls for expenditures of 799,400,000 pounds, which is 9,400,000 pounds above last year's budget.

"The present time is favorable for a return to the gold standard," he continued. "The American exchange rate is favorable. Britain hasn't any heavy commitments to the United States. The political and economic security of both countries is the most favorable."

He intimated that specie payments would be introduced. This would give the Bank of England the option whether paper money should be converted into gold. This was taken by the house to mean that the Bank of England will control the amount of gold currency circulated.

Debt Reduction

There was a surplus for last year of 3,659,000 pounds, said Churchill. He said this sum had been devoted to debt reduction, and that the total debt had been reduced 34,000,000 pounds and the external debt 4,000,000 pounds.

Referring again to the gold standard, Churchill said the gold standard operates today, but that that did not mean a return to gold currency.

The self-governing dominions are also returning to the gold standard, he announced. Churchill said the government was budgeting 9,500,000 pounds of German reparations next year, and continued:

"Negotiations with France are proceeding in the matter of debts, but no counting of these is being made in this budget."

Imperial preference will be enforced on everything but foodstuffs, the chancellor declared. He included in his announcement the statement that the age will be reduced when the old age pension measure takes effect.

The reduced income tax rate would be 6 pence per pound. The amount of the exemption in income taxes would be comparable to a reduction of 6 pence to the pound for incomes of a thousand pounds yearly and a reduction of 10 pence for incomes of 750 pounds yearly. Incomes of 1500 pounds and over yearly would not be affected.

COOLIDGE VIEWS ON BIG ISSUES

White House Spokesman, In Talk To News Writers, Outlines Opinions

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—President Coolidge's thoughts on the state of the union as revealed by the White House spokesman are not turning toward ship subsidies as a way to assist the merchant marine—nor are they turning to anything else so far as affirmative indication of shipping policy is concerned. The spokesman's information to the press contained the following presented virtually verbatim:

1. That the president hasn't seen the proposition said to have been made by General Pershing regarding financial assistance to the American Merchant Marine. That has been a subject that has been under consideration by Congress a number of times but they never passed a bill of that kind. The president doubts very much if they can be persuaded to pass a bill of that nature now, notwithstanding the fact that our shipping costs annually—the expense above the receipts—from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000 not counting depreciation.

The press would recall the effort made during President Harding's administration to provide for a law of this kind which failed. Such an effort also had been made previous to that by Senator Mark Hanna when he was in Washington around 1900—that failed also. The president recalls the merchant marine bill that went through the House in the Harding administration and they (the leaders) said there were sufficient votes in the Senate to pass it but it didn't come to a vote there. They decided to wait till the new election which changed the complexion of the Senate in such a way that it was found the bill wouldn't pass.

President's Attitude

The inquiry having been made as to whether the president now favored such a bill, the reply from the spokesman was that the president would want to know what the nature of the assistance was going to be and how much it was going to cost and what probably would be its effect. He was not in favor of presenting a bill for that purpose at the present time but if some one has a plan he should look at it with a great deal of interest.

Of course it must be remembered that a great many American ships are being operated—some of them at a fair return without the aid of any direct financial assistance from the United States government but it has always been thought if you are to have an adequate merchant marine—one that would give adequate service to all parts of the country and provide sufficient merchant vessels to aid in defense in case of a national emergency—that it would be necessary to give some financial assistance by the United States government.

Shipping Board Row

2. From such inquiries that the president made and certain information that came to him he didn't see any reason for taking any action in relation to the shipping board (the controversy with respect to the division of opinion on the sale of the ships to the Dollar Line). The information that came to him was that part of the board were to appear in court virtually as a suit against the United States government and a suit against the board itself. Some communications that came to him said it was not the case. So he didn't see any reason for taking any further action on it. (This refers to reports that the president would ask members of the board to resign because of alleged opposition in the courts to the majority of the board).

3. The president isn't certain whether the secretary of labor has any one to take the place of Assistant Secretary Henning. He thinks he has but does not recall that the secretary of labor has given him the name. The president would advise with him regarding it and probably appoint whoever seems desirable or whatever he would have to assist him. The secretary and Mr. Henning have been old time friends and for that reason he has relied on Mr. Henning a great deal on account of his ability as a lawyer and probably he is making an effort to get another man Mr. Henning's equal. Of course the secretary has now become so familiar with the routine questions of his department he presumes the secretary doesn't require any more assistance in this.

Summer Vacation

4. The weather of Thursday and Friday in Washington prompts no doubt the inquiry about plans for summer vacation. The president still hopes he may be able to get up to New England some time during the summer for a stay of a month or so. The climate of Washington if one stays here all through the season is rather difficult to bear, not only because of the discomfort of it but because of the drain it makes on one's vitality. It would be a good plan if he could get away for three or four weeks. He should certainly go up to Vermont for a short stay unless something intervenes that would make it difficult for him to do so, and he would like to extend that stay to include the month of August.

5. The president doesn't see how it is going to be possible for him to go down to Charlotte on May 20th at the celebration there. He has appointed a committee to represent the government at the anniversary.

6. The president hasn't any official information about the disturbances in Bulgaria or a possible crisis involving Jugo Slavia. He regrets that ether of those countries is involved in any internal or external difficulties and trusts they may be able to find a way of peacefully concluding them.

RADIO INDUSTRY MAY ENGAGE CZAR

Broadcasters May Try Out Move Made By Movies And Baseball

By ROBERT MACK
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Should the broadcasters of the United States set up a "Czar" of their own, on a throne similar to those held by Will Hays in the movies and Kenesaw Mountain Landis in baseball, the department of commerce would extend an unofficial recognition of his right to rule.

In fact, it was learned today, department officials are inclined to believe that such a course of action might be one of the best ways in which broadcasting could settle down on some definite basis.

Much talk of a radio "Czar" has reached Washington. Following National Radio conference last fall the matter was discussed throughout the country. Then it died down, to be revived rather enthusiastically during this week.

The department of commerce through Secretary Herbert Hoover, has repeatedly expressed its unwillingness to regulate broadcasters or censor broadcasting material. All disputes over wave lengths, broadcasting hours and other phases of the now complicated radio world have been referred always back to the broadcasters for them to solve, with the department making its suggestions when all other recommendations and plans have failed. But with the development of radio in the past year, this method has become unwieldy with the prospect of proving even more unsatisfactory in the coming fall and winter.

Obstacle in Way

Apparently the only thing that has prevented the naming of a "Czar" in the past has been the lack of any close organization of the 500-odd broadcasters. The National association of Broadcasters, formed avowedly with this end in view has had the support of only a limited number of the stations. It is suggested however, that necessity soon may bring about a new movement for unity and harmonious co-operation with the government.

Formation of a company to be known as the Indian Radio Telegraph Co., capitalized at thirty million rupees, and organized to erect and operate commercial wireless stations in India was reported today to the department of commerce. An official license to operate is expected to be granted in a short time. The company will enjoy the rights in India to the Marconi and other patents essential to the establishment of the stations.

Pommes De Terre Dauphine Paris Dish

PARIS, April 28.—Of all the ways to prepare potatoes—and the French have more than fifty seven varieties—there is none more delicious than pommes de terre Dauphine.

Make a rather dry puree of potatoes and mix in one-fifth pound of butter for every two pounds of the vegetable, one whole egg and the yolks of two others. Then add three-fifths pound of cabbage puree made without sugar.

Form into croquettes in roll shape. Roll in fine bread crumbs and plunge into hot fat. When nicely browned drain and serve at once.

DEPEW, EXAMPLE OF WHISKER AGE

Noted After-Dinner Speaker And Rail Head Passes Ninety-First Year

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, April 28.—Looking back over the pictorial record of the ninety-one years of Chauncey M. Depew's life one sees a sea of whiskers; billows of beards. In the times agone they were black beards, bushy, bristling and plentiful. Within the recollection of the present generation, however, they have been gray beards and white beards, losing some of their plenitude and their aggressiveness, but beards, always beards. For Chauncey Depew had attained his three-score years and ten when the present generation began and the beards naturally had begun to grow gray at that mere milestone in a most remarkable career of achievement and longevity.

Years ago Mr. Depew was interested in a serio-comic debate held at the National Press club in Washington when the subject up for consideration ran something like this:

"Resolved, that a bald head may be a detriment,but a beard is a man's own fault."

The bald-headed side of the debate was maintained by "Fiddling Bob" Taylor of Tennessee, and by "Nick" Longworth, of Ohio, the new speaker of the house. The bearded side of the momentous discussion was handled by the late Senator Carter, of Montana, and "Uncle Joe" Cannon.

Whiskers Win

The point of the story is that the whiskers won. It was agreed that through all history the beard had been the mark of the strong and virile man, the father of large families, the tumbler of temples, and all that sort of thing.

Mr. Depew celebrating his ninety-first anniversary last Thursday does not attribute his long and happy life to the beard, or rather not to the beard alone, although it has been his constant companion through all the years of his stirring manhood. He has no fault to find today with the bald heads or the beardless, but in the days of his youth the beard was the mark of man's estate. Safety razors were unknown. And, having once acquired an extremely ornate hirsute appendage, Mr. Depew has remained constant to the idea. He has seen the beards of his companions disappear one by one before the march of the modern razor, but not once has he been tempted to stray from the bearded fold. He is the original "Beaver" of the world.

Looking Forward

Mr. Depew, carrying on today at his New York Central offices just as he has been working for the past many years, was looking forward to his one-hundredth birthday anniversary with a confidence which makes it seem an easily attainable mark. Once at the century corner he expects to go on to 110—and beyond.

Mr. Depew is rather delighted with the idea that he has seldom if ever been referred to as the "Grand Old Man." Grand Old Man doesn't seem to fit him at all. For his outlook on life is one of youth, hope and aspirations. He does not believe in lamenting the past. That brings old age. He likes to think of himself as a part, a very lively part of the present, of the "Jazz age, if you will, although his taste for music, wide as it is, does not run to jazz. Yet Mr. Depew, tolerant in the years of wisdom, does not condemn jazz. It is all right in moderation. And there is the keynote of his long life—moderation. Extremes in nothing—in goodness or what the world might call badness—just moderation.

Depew's Philosophy

The "Good Old Days" are no better than the good present days. Life is what one makes of it and gets out of it, according to Mr. Depew's splendid philosophy. A cheerful disposition is more to be coveted than great wealth. Meet your fellow man with a smile. Live gracefully and it will not be necessary to grow old gracefully, or otherwise.

Mr. Depew is one man of wealth who does not believe it is necessary for the human animal to emulate the migratory bird and chase the seasons around the year. He enjoys the rigors of a northern winter and the sun of the summer months. When a man is born to a certain climate let him stick to it. Not that Mr. Depew has refrained from Florida and California. On the contrary. But in seeking the pleasures of summer in winter and winter in summer he has been guided as in all things by moderation.

Devotee of Radio

A devotee of the radio, of the modern plays, of the movies, Chauncey Depew today is getting a great kick out of a life that men many years his junior are condemning as bad and not worth while. The world is not going to pot. The younger generation is not all that is wicked. Times change, but fundamentally life is much the same. Hold the head high and smile. It is difficult to be a pessimist after talking with Chauncey Depew.

His one lament—the passing of the old family horse and buggy—is shared by many. Clarence Hamlin, of Colorado Springs, once remarked that the New York he used to love passed with the hansom cab.

ROYLE TAKES CHARGE OF INQUIRY

Police Acting To Prevent Bombing Of Cleaning Plants In 'War'

With Southern California's cleaners and dyers' war threatening to spread to Glendale, Detective Lieutenant William J. Royle has taken charge of the investigation of the local situation and has placed guards about the plant of the Palace Dry Cleaners, 209 North Glendale avenue, to protect it against sabotage.

Royle is co-operating with police of Los Angeles, Pasadena and Santa Monica in an investigation of measures said to have been adopted by the Plant Owners' association of Cleaners and Dyers to force independent operators into the association and to keep them there. The association recently announced a general raise in rates for cleanng, dyeing and pressing service, but many of the independent organizations refused to follow its lead, it is said.

According to reports that Royle has received, the Palace Dry Cleaners has been marked as the next scene of operations by the dynamiters who damaged property and menaced lives at Pasadena and Santa Monica last week. A. D. Orr, manager of the dry cleaning establishment, has also been warned. The information is said to have come through police channels.

Reservations for the banquet are to close Saturday noon, May 2, and Mrs. Jones states that those not having reservations should call Mrs. Colin Cable, hospitality chairman, Glendale 442-W.

HIGH MARK IN BUILDING IS PREDICTED

Permits For April Expected To Surpass All Former Months This Year

Building in Glendale this month will smash nearly all former records for April and also will pass the high mark set during the first three months of 1925, it was predicted today by H. C. Vandewater, city building superintendent.

At noon today the total for this month had reached $765,600, bringing the 1925 total to $2,821,710. With two and a half days yet of April the total for the month will be well past the $800,000 mark, according to Vandewater. Only once before has the April building permits surpassed that. In 1922, during a season of exceptional building activity when some large permits were issued, the April total reached $1,022,599.

Predict Big Year

April, 1924, showed a total of $626,754. Last month there was $798,021 in building permits; February, $652,795 and in January, $613,280.

Permits for this month to date are $17,594 in excess of the same day last month, according to records in Vandewater's office, when only $747,106 in permits had been issued.

With this month's building as a criterion, building officials are predicting for 1925 the greatest construction activity in the history of the city.

'La Golondrina' Draws Many To San Gabriel

That the popularity of "La Golondrina" (The Swallow) is rapidly spreading through all parts of Southern California is shown by the large number of social, civic, fraternal, commercial and industrial organizations which are forming special excursions to the Mission playhouse at San Gabriel. They are coming in special cars, busses and by motor caravans, thus economizing on the expenses of the trip.

The success of "La Golondrina" means another step towards the creation and establishment of a trilogy of California plays by the author of the Mission Play, John Steven McGroarty. The countless numbers of Californians who have witnessed the Mission Play are evidencing an active interest in this second work by Mr. McGroarty. The road the Mission Play traveled was one of great sacrifice and heartbreak. Many who know the story of the first play are expressing an eagerness to be among the first to applaud "La Golondrina" during its initial performances on its way to recognition beside the Mission Play.

Celebrate Anniversary

MR. and MRS. W. H. La FOUNTAIN of 137 West Acacia street, who will mark their fiftieth wedding anniversary tonight with a family gathering at their home. They have resided in Glendale since 1914, and were married in Troy, New York, on April 28, 1875.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. La Fountain of 137 West Acacia street are to be hosts at 6 o'clock dinner tonight, entertaining their daughter and four sons and families in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding.

The family gathering will recall for Mr. and Mrs. La Fountain their marriage April 28, 1875, in Troy, N. Y. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's sister on Sheridan avenue. The groom was a native of Troy, while Miss Mary B. Hotaling, the bride, came from San Lake in Rensselaer county.

Mr. La Fountain was a manufacturer of machinery used for cleaning purposes. He was also in the postal service of the United States for a few years. In addition he served the Troy fire department for eleven years, and is an exempt fireman in the state of New York.

Moved to Cleveland

In 1884 Mr. and Mrs. La Fountain moved to Cleveland, Ohio, where they made their home for sixteen years. In 1899 they moved to Pittsburgh, Pa., where they lived until 1910. Mr. La Fountain continued his machinery business, and from 1901 to 1910 was engaged in the automobile business. In 1912 they came to Los Angeles, where they spent a year and a half before coming to Glendale. At that time Mr. La Fountain took up the insurance adjusting work.

At one time he returned east to become manager for the Automobile Dealers' association of Pittsburgh, but, after a year's work, his health broke down and he returned to California, where he has been content to remain since. During the past two years he has been active in local realty affairs.

As a resident of Glendale Mr. La Fountain has built his home and sixteen other homes in Glendale.

High In Masonry

Masonry has been a dominating interest in Mr. La Fountain's life. Within another year he will be a life member of all branches with the exception of the thirty-third degree. He has the honor of being a charter member of Fort Pitt lodge, Pittsburgh, Pa.; a member of the Syria shrine, Pittsburgh, Pa.; a life member of Cleveland lodge, No. 148, F. & A. M.; a member of Glendale commandery, No. 53, Knights Templar, and Glendale pyramid of Sciots, No. 39. He is also a life member of the American Association of Insurance Adjusters, and an Elk.

Mr. and Mrs. La Fountain attend the Christian Science church.

The late Mrs. Lucinda Hotaling, whose death occurred two years ago, at the age of 93, made her home with her son-in-law and daughter for forty-seven years. She was one of the charter members of The Glendale Evening News' Sunset club.

Friends of Mr. La Fountain will learn with interest that his wide experience in machinery work resulted in his designing and building fifty-two special machines used for cleaning work.

Five Children

Mr. and Mrs. La Fountain have five children: Mrs. Mary R. Marshall, who with her husband lives at Roscoe; William J. La Fountain, who resides with his wife and two sons, Harlan P. and Robert H., in Philadelphia, Pa.; Herbert La Fountain, who resides at 141 West Acacia street, and whose children, Martha D. and William L., live with their grandparents; Edward A. La Fountain, who resides with his wife and daughter, Vera D., on Olive street, and Harry La Fountain, who resides with his wife and daughter, Ethel, at Roscoe.

The La Fountains were happily surprised last night, when they attended the dinner of Glendale Commandery, Knights Templar, to be presented with many beautiful flowers and showered with congratulations.

Both Mr. and Mrs. La Fountain have found health and happiness in California, and as loyal Glendale residents they declare that it is their desire to continue to live in "The Fastest Growing City in America."

SCHOOL GLEE CLUBS AND BANDS COMPETE

Glendale and Burbank Divide Honors On First Night; Tenor Solo Given By John Grant Wright Wins

Glendale and Burbank High schools divided honors in the opening contests of the district Eisteddfod, held at the Glendale Intermediate school last night, when the Glendale Union High school girls' glee club triumphed over the Burbank girl singers and the Burbank band came back strong, winning over its Glendale competitor the honor of representing this district in the Eisteddfod finals in Los Angeles.

A packed auditorium greeted the Eisteddfod first night performers. The crowd was enthusiastic and applauded noisily throughout the program, culminating with several minutes of hand clapping and noise making as representatives of the winning contestants were awarded large banners by Ben F. Pearson, president of the California Eisteddfod association.

In the tenor solo competitions, also staged at the school last night, John Grant Wright was first and Claude J. Whitfield second. They were presented with gold and silver medals respectively by Mr. Pearson. Other numbers on the program were selections by the Glendale Union High school orchestra and the Glendale Union High school boys' glee club. Neither organization had competition although both qualified to enter the finals at Los Angeles.

Formally Opened

The Eisteddfod contests were formally opened at shortly after 7:30 o'clock with numbers by the Glendale High orchestra under the direction of Irving G. Ulmer. The orchestra played "Stars and Stripes Forever," "Stradella Overture" and "Moment Musical."

R. Ernest Tucker, superintendent of municipal recreation and director of Community Service, under whose auspices the contests are being staged, explained the purpose of the Eisteddfod in a short talk, introducing H. M. Butts, chairman of the music committee, who presided over the contests.

Burbank High school girls' glee club opened the competitions. Under the direction of Miss Jean McCunn they sang "Pale Moon" by Logan and "The Snow" by Elgar. In the second number Miss Christine Krum and Miss Harriet Valentine, violinists, played obligato parts. Miss Billie Burke accompanied at the piano.

Competition Close

Glendale Union High school girls' glee club sang "Pale Moon" also, following with "The Gypsies" by Schurman. The club was directed by Mrs. Florence Parker with Miss Lucile Beach at the piano. In the second number, Dorothy Schenk, Roma Staub and Doris Davis sang solo parts.

Competition between the glee clubs was keen. Points of merit were not clearly definable in many instances and the winner hung in doubt until the last phrase was sung. The judges' decision was Glendale, 88.6 per cent; Burbank, 82.7 per cent.

Mr. Ulhmer led his Glendale High school band to the stage first in the band competitions. In a stirring manner the band rendered "Porter's Catalina Band," "Superba" by Dalbey and "American Patrol" (Meacham.) The Burbank band followed with "Our Director" (Bigelow), "Moonbeams Serenade" (Moon) and "The Bronze Horse" (Auber), under the direction of Hurbert Snow White. Judges rated the bands as follows, according to final tabulations: Burbank, 85.3 per cent; Glendale, 82.7 per cent.

Tenor Soloists

In the tenor solo competitions, Mr. Wright sang "I'll Sing the Songs of Araby" (Clay) and "The Stars" (Rogers.) Mr. Whitfield sang "The Neapolitan Knights" (Zamecnic) and "Since We Parted" (Allitzen.) The scores of the contestants were: Mr. Wright, 80.7 per cent; Mr. Whitfield, 71.6 per cent. They were accompanied by Mrs. John Wright at the piano.

In the closing numbers, the Glendale Union High school boys' glee club, under the direction of Mrs. Florence Parker, sang "The Old Road" (Scott) and "Bells of Shandon" (Nevin.) The boys' score, although not in competition, was announced as 81 per cent. The score of the Glendale orchestra was given as 73 per cent. The orchestra also played without competition.

Judges of the contests were W. J. Krafts, organist, composer and member of the college of music, University of California, southern branch; Arthur M. Perry, associate dean of music at University of Southern California, and Alexander Stewart, executive secretary of the California Eisteddfod. Following introduction of the judges, Mr. Krafts gave a short talk, explaining the method employed in judging the contestants.

Explains Movement

In his opening remarks, Mr. Butts stressed the opportunities afforded the Eisteddfod to bring out the hidden faculties of the young and old alike. The characteristics of wholesome competition and good sportsmanship, nurtured through the contests, will make for a better citizenship, he said. Mr. Butts invited those who heard

THAT WHICH BREEDS—
Hatred is sowing the seeds of new wars.
Distrust in a home is planting bombs under its foundations.
Suspicion is slaughtering the chances for happiness.
Confidence sets the stage for prosperity.
Contempt for law is undermining all government.
Discontent is increasing the stream of misery.
Intolerance is serving no good cause of religion or morals.

DAMNING PUBLIC UTILITIES

Public service corporations have always been roundly condemned and criticised, sometimes deservedly, often not. In the old days the public was at the mercy of the public utilities, which were operated, not for the best interests of the people, but for the corporations themselves; and they had things all their own way. Franchises were dishonestly acquired and legislatures and city councils were purchased. These abuses led the people to condemn all corporations without any provocation, and this attitude of mind still prevails to a certain extent on the part of the people, although public service methods have been revolutionized.

Successful corporations have learned that it is cheaper to give good service and make friends than it is to fight the people to whom they must look for revenue. They publish statements of their earnings and cost of extensions, operation and maintenance; they employ experts to reduce costs; and, in many instances, invite the public to come into the corporation as stockholders.

While there is always a tendency to believe public service charges are too high, it must be remembered that there are two sides to every question. Corporations should be fair in fixing charges and the public should be fair in giving credit to the corporation for helping to develop the community. What would Glendale be without its public service corporations, the vast machinery that furnishes us with electric railway and telephone service, with gas, electricity and water? How large a part have these things had in our wonderful growth? It is not necessary to let public service corporations run over us in the way of rates; we must see that they are regulated in the interest of the consumer, but let us give the devil his due.

PRISON LABOR PROBLEM

Secretary of Commerce Hoover has appointed a man to investigate the production of goods by prison labor. It is hoped that inquiry into this matter will bring about much-needed adjustments. It is desirable that the prisoner be given work, both for his own good and to help pay for his keep. But free labor cannot compete with prison labor and it is not fair to manufacturers to be compelled to place their products in competition with prison-made goods.

California and a few other states have partially solved this problem by the establishment of convict road camps where the men build and repair the highways and are given what they earn above the cost of their keep and the expense of maintaining the camps. The money is sent to their families or held for them until their sentences are completed. In these camps competition with free labor is reduced to a minimum, as the prisoners work in inaccessible places in the mountains where few free laborers care to go.

Selling prison-made goods at the same price of products of the same quality made elsewhere and paying the prisoner what he earns above the expense of making the article, plus the cost of his maintenance in prison, would partially eliminate the competitive feature and give the prisoner hope and renewed respect for himself.

The convict should have employment under healthful conditions, both for his own sake and for the good of the state. There are many phases of the subject to be considered and it is to be hoped that a thorough investigation will lead to conclusions that will be beneficial to all concerned.

SKILLED WORKERS AND HIGH WAGES

There is much said about the high wages paid to mechanics and artisans in comparison with the salaries of teachers, clerks and other "white-collar" workers. Recently the complaint was made in New York that a steam-shovel engineer was paid $71.50 a week, while some schoolteachers were receiving less than half that amount.

The remedy for this, according to the Kansas City Star, is to train fewer teachers and clerks and more mechanics, artisans and steam-shovel engineers. "Too many of the young people in the schools are thinking about becoming doctors, lawyers, teachers, managers or supervisors and too few training as skilled workers," says the Star.

The lure of the "white-collar" job is strong with the youth, but the modern high school is making it easy for young people to direct their energy toward the trades and vocational training if they have an aptitude for it.

The Star may be partially right in thinking that the demand for skilled labor keeps wages up. The thought is in line with the statement of President Coolidge in his inaugural address that restrictive immigration and other influences were bringing abundant employment, high wages and a state of contentment among wage-earners seldom before seen.

But other adjustments are necessary. Training more mechanics and artisans and fewer clerks and teachers will not solve the problem, for the fact remains that in times when unemployment is prevalent there are as many, if not more, skilled workers out of jobs than there are "white-collar" men.

Tuffy Reid has paid the penalty for murder, which, in this state, is hanging. It was clearly proved that he committed the crime and, whatever our opinion of capital punishment, we must admit that there was no reason or excuse for clemency. Society is safer by one less murderer. Would-be criminals have this example to deter them from committing crime. Justice has been done. But has it? So many who plan and commit murder in cold blood are escaping the noose and the electric chair every day. The poor dope fiend paid the penalty. Had he been intelligent and wealthy enough to employ Clarence Darrow to defend him he would be alive today. Is that justice?

The Neligh, Neb., News says there is no live newspaper in a dead town and that there is no live town with a dead newspaper. The town and newspaper must live and flourish together or they must die and be buried together. This is strictly the truth, for a newspaper is the mirror of the city in which it is published. It not only helps or retards the city's growth but it reflects the community as it is. When you see a good newspaper with a large circulation and generous advertising patronage you may know there is a live city behind that paper. And when you see a prosperous, growing city you are equally sure that such vitality is not possible without a live and growing newspaper.

THE OLD (ELECTRIC) ARMCHAIR

Trees

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The American Tree association of Washington, under the leadership of Charles Lathrop Pack, asks the members of a community jointly owning a town forest not for one minute to tolerate a citizen who leaves a match smoldering in the woods.

It asks, why not have a community forest near town, why not a Memorial avenue?

Tree planting time is at hand. Now is the time to make the plans for a town forest for next year while everybody is thinking about trees.

In many cities and towns there is land that has reverted to the community for non-payment of taxes, or land that is lying fallow and paying only a mite of return in taxes. The first type of land has become the locality's own and the second can be acquired for very little.

Many towns own property in the form of hospitals, asylums, poor farms, or other institutional establishments.

Most cities and towns have water reservoirs that must be protected by a watershed of trees in the interest of public health.

Why not create a Memorial forest?

Going farther than this feature of general education, the town forest becomes an adjunct of the schools. Within its confines nature and forestry can be studied. Having been set aside and protected, the area becomes a sanctuary and refuge for wild life of all kinds. It becomes the center of the recreational activity of the community as well, and helps along in the great movement toward the outdoors.

Thus the town forest can pay for itself in dollars and cents, declare dividends every day in the year in healthful and valuable services to the community, and open the door to the work of conserving the many gifts of Nature.

As a part of the educational campaign the American Tree association wants thousands of new members in the tree planting army. It will send you, for a two-cent stamp, tree planting suggestions and a tree day program. It will send you an application blank to fill out so that your tree can be registered on the national honor roll. The association wants you to celebrate the centennial of Arbor Day in 1972 by planting the trees now.

The week of April 27th is National Garden Week. This date coincides with Forest Protection Week.

What finer memorial than a tree? This is an army all should join.

The suggestion of the American Tree association is entitled to our heartiest support.

Horoscope

Again friendly stars smile on the Earth, according to astrology. The Sun, Venus and Saturn are all in benefic aspect.

Now is the time to start in search of new opportunities in both artistic and everyday vocations.

Both men and women should seek positions while this configuration prevails and those who have any sort of influence with the powers that be should make use of it.

Political appointments should be sought under this direction of the stars, which makes for the bestowal of favors by persons in high place.

There is a sign today that appears to presage activity along novel lines among the adherents of both the Republican and the Democratic parties. Ne wleaders are to be chosen.

Under this rule the giving of presents should be especially fortunate both for donor and recipient. This rule applies, also, to engagement rings.

This should be a lucky wedding day, which bestows on bride and bridegroom honors and valuable gifts.

Women are well directed in love affairs as well a sfinancial matters, under this planetary government, but they will do well not to mix romance and business.

Saturn today appears to promise prosperity to many workers, including those who engage in mining or tilling the soil.

Mexico now comes under a rule that will attract many spectators from the United States.

Stars supposed to govern the movement of population will attract toward the south so that Canadians will come into this country while settlers from the states go into Mexico.

Immense crops are foretold for this year, but there may be unseasonable weather in many parts of the country.

Persons whose birthdate it is should keep their health in order and take special care to avoid accidents this year. Those who are employed probably will be very fortunate.

Children born on this day will be keen in mind and active in body. These subjects of Taurus are usually exceedingly generous and not at all inclined to save money. They like the good things of the world, but desire to share them with others.

Today's Poem

Faintly as tolls the evening chime
Our voices keep tune and our oars keep time.
Soon as the woods on shore look dim,
We'll sing at St. Anne's our parting hymn.
Row, brothers, row, the stream runs fast,
The rapids are near and the daylight's past!

Why should we yet our sail unfurl?
There is not a breath the blue wave to curl;
But, when the wind blows off the shore,
Oh! sweetly we'll rest our weary oar.
Blow, breezes, blow, the stream runs fast,
The rapids are near and the daylight's past!

Ottawa's tide! this trembling moon
Shall see us float over thy surges soon.
Saint of this green isle! hear our prayers,
Oh, grant us cool heavens and favoring airs.
Blow, breezes, blow, the stream runs fast,
The rapids are near and the daylight's past!

—Thomas Moore.

Yale Boxer Takes to Poetry With 'Blinker'

OXFORD, Eng., April 28.—Eddie Eagen, Rhodes scholar and Yale boxer, has broken out in a rash of poetry.

Eagen, who has garnered for himself a considerable reputation as an amateur heavyweight, is now hard at work on an epic poem in praise of the art of self-defense. An injured eye has kept Eddie out of the ring and driven him to poetry.

Oystermen Ordered to Pass Physical Tests

BALTIMORE, Md., April 28.—A. L. Sullivan, state drug commissioner, has ordered all employes of oyster packing plants to submit to a physical examination before the next oyster season rolls around in September. The commissioner points out that the United States health service has established a rigid code of regulations affecting sanitation and general health conditions in places engaged in the oyster business.

It is said blood tests of employes made last February as a result of the Illinois ban on Maryland oysters, revealed that quite a number of workers were possible typhoid carriers.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNAIRD

CLARK KINNAIRD

What makes life dreary, George Eliot opines in Daniel Deronda, is the want of motive.

And Goethe observes that unqualified activity, of whatever kind, leads at last to bankruptcy.

In the works of mankind, as in those of nature, it is really the motive which is chiefly worth attention.

Men get out of countenance with themselves and others because they treat the means as the end, and so, from sheer doing, do nothing, or, perhaps, just what they would have avoided.

* * *

"Our plans and designs should be so perfect in truth and beauty, that in touching them the world could only mar," meditates Goethe. "We should thus have the advantage of setting right what is wrong, and restoring what is destroyed."

In botany there is a species of plants called Incompletoe; and just in the same way it can be said that there are men who are incomplete and imperfect. They are those whose desires and struggles are out of proportion to their actions and achievements.

"The most insignificant man can be complete if he works within the limits of his capacities, innate or acquired; but even fine talents can be obscured, neutralized, and destroyed by lack of this indispensable requirement of symmetry," Goethe observes.

"It is only men of practical ability, knowing their powers and using them with moderation and prudence, who will be successful in worldly affairs."

* * *

It is obvious that it is a great error to take oneself for more than one is, or for less than one is worth.

But what is your duty? The claims of the day.

* * *

"The longer I live," Goethe says, "the more it grieves me to see man, who occupies his supreme place for the very purpose of imposing his will upon nature, and freeing himself and his from an outrageous necessity—to see him taken up with some false notion, and doing just the opposite of what he wants to do; and then, because the whole bent of his mind is spoilt, bungling miserably over everything."

Who's Who

Japan twice recently intervened and saved the former Chinese emperor, Hsuang Tung, from his friends of the north, who desired to place him again on his throne, and his enemies of the south, who wanted his extinction, and now, safe in the Japanese concession at Tientsin, he is seeking to become the ward of the United States, according to messages that have been received within the last few days. It is also said that "Henry Puyi," as the Manchu prince now prefers to be called, failing to become a ward of Uncle Sam, will come here anyway to finish his education but he will come under the protection of Japan.

Two romantic flights marked his progress to Tientsin from the Chinese quarter of Peking, where he had been placed for safekeeping by the "Christian General," Feng Yu-hsiang, at the time of the latter's coup d'etat last November. The first, which took place on February 10, was to the Japanese Legation, the second, two weeks later, was to Tientsin.

Those persons who have had access to him since the beginning of the year say that he has been fearful of his life ever since December 31, when some emissaries of the new government called upon him and forced him to sign a second abdication, which went much further than the first by depriving him of all his imperial appendages and perquisites. By the first, signed on February 12, 1912, he was to retain all his titles, receive an annual grant of $4,000,000 (silver), have a residence in the Forbidden City, and be allowed to exercise the right to issue "moral and cultural decrees."

He was then only eight years old. He had been Emperor since December 2, 1908. In his retreat in the Forbidden City, where for twelve years he was kept a practical prisoner by successive governments of Peking, he married quietly, December 1, 1922, Princess Kuo Chin-si. He had not even emerged when an attempt was made by General Chang Hsun, with German backing, to restore him to his throne in July, 1917.

On the 6th of last November the troops of General Feng invaded the palace in the Forbidden City and took its imperial tenant to the much more modest abode in the Chinese city. There, at first, he was kept under close guard and he was forbidden to receive any visitors. Later the watch over him was relaxed and he is said to have tried to get in touch with the legations.

During the latter part of his sojourn in the Chinese city he is said to have heard terrible stories of the way the "Christian General" treated his guests.

These stories, particularly after the humiliation of his second abdication on December 31, caused the young man to seek an abode elsewhere. He achieved this with characteristic Manchu cunning.

Peking and Tokio papers speak of "Henry Puyi" as a harmless and inoffensive young man of 21, a born student and linguist but filled with an ambition to excel in athletics, which seems contrary to his slight build and undeveloped physique. But a Tokio paper points out that he has never had a chance and that both mentally and physically he possesses great potentialities.

He is a subscriber to several American college periodicals and enjoys following the progress of the sports very much. He is also fond of books and travel and big game hunting in Asia and Africa.

NEW YORK MAYOR 'WOULD BE KING'

'Red Mike' Hylan Is Out to Capture Election After Eight Years' Rule

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Mayor John F. Hylan has come to be recognized here in New York as the man who would be king. The mayor opines that he has a divine right to a third nomination and election. He has been mayor for going on eight years now and he is drawing the handsome salary of $25,000 a year. He wants to continue to draw it and to rule over the destinies of the vast millions of peoples who live in the greater city for the remainder of his natural life. Mayor Hylan believes that one good "term" deserves another and another until the end of time.

Being mayor of this big city is a big job, but there are no third term traditions connected with it as with the presidency. There is nothing in the city charter to prevent a man from ruling indefinitely, provided he can win the favor of Tammany Hall every four years.

"Red Mike" as the mayor one time was called by his old buddies in the hard working days when he was an employe on the "L", is trying this time to browbeat Tammany into nominating him. He says in effect that if he doesn't get the regular Democratic nomination from the powers that be on "Fourteenth Street" he will run independently. The mayor says he will be elected independently also. But Tammany smiles at that. Tammany knows its town. However, there is grave danger that Mayor Hylan by an independent candidacy might beat the Tammany nominee by dividing the vote and thus throw the mayoralty into the hands of the republicans.

Rule or Ruin

With Mayor Hylan therefore the situation is one of rule or ruin. The mayor says he is going to be elected this fall or bust. Virtually every newspaper in the city, with the exception of the Hearst string, is out against the mayor tooth and nail. Harpoons are flying at him from many directions, but like Ajax defying the lightning, the mayor, the "good mayor" as his friends aver, is fighting back. And he is no mean fighter at that. He is a master of invective and almost as good as his sponsor, Mr. Hearst, in coining names for his enemies. The mayor is lambasting the papers and the papers are lambasting the mayor. The mayor says that "The days of newspaper government in this city are over."

Mayor Hylan is good and mad and he doesn't care who knows it. He disregarded the old saying that those whom the gods would destroy they first make mad. He says he has been mad for a long time and no gods or demi-gods in the newspaper profession can destroy him. The mayor has Mr. Hearst behind him as he has had for the last 8 years. They virtually have fought their battles alone and are going at it again this year.

Tammany Mum

The thing that makes the mayor maddest—and he is red headed as well as hot headed—is that Tammany insists upon ignoring him. He has cajoled, pleaded and raved at the "organization" demanding to know what it intends to do, but the "Tiger" is as silent as doom, which, is most disconcerting.

"Red Mike" is a unique figure in American politics. From the first moment he became mayor he has been working to perpetuate himself in that office. The name of "Mayor Hylan" has been placarded on every school house, every street corner, every city building, every city activity. Every city committee has been a "Mayor Hylan committee." The self advertising has been effective in the past. It is being ridiculed by the enemies today but it may prove victorious once more. In any event New York city is in for a gay old time this summer and fall. Governor Smith is being drawn daily into the affair. The regulars want to kill Hylan and Hearst, but they don't know just how.

DAYLIGHT SAVING HAS ITS INNINGS

Marcus M. Marks, New York, Considered 'Father' of Gotham's Measure

By EDNA MARSHALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Daylight saving, when it goes into effect on Sunday morning, robbing people of an hour's sleep and adding sixty minutes of light time fun to each day for a few months, may be just a "nice thing" to most folk. But it means the anniversary of the biggest victory of his life to Marcus M. Marks.

Ever since the trip he made years ago to Europe when he "discovered" daylight saving there, he has been fighting to give the extra hour permanently to this country. With his dynamic personality having its full play he led the forces that fought for the first daylight saving bill, a federal measure passed in 1918, under the sponsorship of Senator Calder.

New York, under his generalship, fought bitterly against the repeal of that measure in 1919 and rebelled when congress repealed again after President Wilson had vetoed the repeal. Then his cohorts induced the local board of aldermen to pass an emergency measure—and finally there was a compromise—New York was to have its own option on the question of saving daylight in the summer time. And that meant imposing it on a large section of the country for most cities adjust their business hours to suit New York's convenience. Marcus Marks has always been a fighter, according to his friends. His very sturdy bearing shows it—and his penetrating eyes which look through the person who opposes him bear out the impression. Although he is 66 and has many fights behind him, like a man of 45 he is full of energy to put into new causes.

Marcus Marks was president of the Borough of Manhattan when he first became convinced of the merits of adding an hour to each working and playing day. Today he is president of the National Daylight Saving association and besides helping New York in its battle with the farmers and other foes of the cause, he is advising other communities in the way of victory.

Both City Manager Stone and Chief Fraser complimented the officers at today's session of the council.

PASTOR TALKS ON 'MODERN GASHIM'

Rev. Edmonds' Sermon On Sunday Deals With Bible Figure

Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of Glendale Presbyterian church, spoke Sunday on "The Modern Gashim," saying:

"Nehemiah was a man of God; a character without a blot; a man of faith, bold, resolute, energetic, a man of prayer and of great reserve power, who stood like a great anvil until the hammers of opposition wore themselves out beating against him. He held the high post of cup-bearer to the king. Now Jerusalem was without walls, trodden down by her enemies. The heart of Nehemiah was touched by the woes of his brethren. He asked permission of the king to repair the walls. He was made governor of Judea. Gathering all necessary forces, he rebuilt the walls in the short space of fifty-two days amid most bitter opposition. Worship was restored, abuses were put away, the sanctity of the Sabbath restored. When he returned to the Persian court, there remained a prosperous city, with walls, and a people enthusiastic for service for God.

Gashim's Identity

'But who was this Gashim? Not one in ten thousand would know apart from the reference given. We know little about him. His name occurs three times in this chapter, when he is called Gashim, the Arabian, when Sanballet uses it to confirm a slander against Nehemiah. He was one of a coterie of enemies of God's people who sought to put an end to rebuilding the ruined walls of the city, a work which both patriotism and loyalty to Jehovah inspired them to undertake. Gashim seems to have been a man of considerable influence in his time, at least among those who arrayed themselves against the plan and purpose of Jehovah. But today Gashim, the Arabian, is forgotten, although he stands out as the Judas of the Old Testament.

"It's a sad fact that Gashim of Nehemiah's day was not the last of his breed. Like the poor, his descendants are always with us. Men today, in their opposition to truth, manifest every characteristic of this ancient Gashim. 'Gashim saith it' no doubt had great weight in his day; The Daily News of Jerusalem, probably quoted his opinions at length. But who cares today for Gashim?—it is now, as then, 'Thus saith the Lord.'

'Gashim Saith It'

"'Gashim saith it.' Saith what? 'No matter what a man believes—so his conduct is right.' The followers of Gashim would eliminate all creeds from our churches. Why be concerned about the Apostles' creed, or the deity of Christ, or the doctrine of virgin birth; the verbal inspiration of the Scriptures, the origin of man; blood atonement; the literal bodily resurrection of our Lord or His imminent return? Keep the Golden Rule—be an optimist. Conduct—that's the shibboleth of a Brahmin, a Buddhist, an atheist or an infidel. 'Gashim saith it,' that settles it.

"But how know when an action is right or wrong, good or bad, consistent or inconsistent? I insist that there must be an infallible standard. In business, we demand 100 per cent. In matter of faith Gashim saith 75 or 80 per cent will do. 'It's conduct that counts'—no, it's faith that counts. Conduct apart from faith is abomination in the sight of the Lord. It's the difference between Cain and Abel, between the Pharisee and the publican, between regeneration and mere reformation. To the winds with Gashim and his theories and opinions. 'Thus saith the Lord' is the only incontrovertible standard.

Christianity Failure

"Gashim saith that 'Christianity is a failure. It does not prevent war, nor oppression; or raise the moral standard of the nation.' But Christ never intended to prevent wars, or relieve oppression en masse, or create high moral standards of cities or nations as such. Christ has to do with men individually. Christ does not come knocking at the door of the world for entrance, but He does come to the individual heart. I do not know of a community in the whole world that is entirely Christian. Christ regenerates men as individuals, and to do this He must be received by the individual man.

"Another fact—when He is not received, Christ cannot be blamed for the consequences of His non-reception. Who is to blame if a man perishes of hunger when he refuses to eat? Let men everywhere accept Christ, let them obey His teachings, and war and sin will disappear from the earth.

Real Deliverance

"What has the modern Gashim ever done for the real deliverance of man? That 'men can save themselves' is a silly word when God hath said that 'without the shedding of blood, there is no remission of sins,' and 'there is no other name under heaven, given among men, whereby a man can be saved but the name of Jesus.'

"Shall we give any weight to the guesses of the modern Gashims as over against the positive experience of a faith built upon the foundation of the law and the prophets, Jesus Christ Himself being the chief cornerstone? 'Forever, O Lord, Thy Name is settled in the heavens.' 'As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord. Choose ye!

"'Thus saith Gashim.' 'Thus saith the Lord.'"

FIREWORKS SALE BAN IS URGED

Tower Introduces Ordinance In Council To Prevent Use In Glendale

An ordinance prohibiting the sale of fireworks in Glendale was introduced at the City Council today by Councilman W. F. Tower. In the event of its passage, the ordinance will become effective June 5.

The measure was introduced by Councilman Tower after P. J. Hayselden, member of the Angeles Forest Protective association, had declared in a short talk before the council that "fire conditions in portions of Glendale are very bad."

"On the hillsides in the northern part of the city the brush is just like so much powder and dynamite," Hayselden declared. "Last year persons driving by tossed lighted firecrackers from the rear of their automobiles to explode in dry grass and brush. There is only one small fire hydrant in the Casa Verdugo section that is available for use. If a bad fire started there from firecrackers the loss would be tremendous."

Hayselden and Tower made a canvass of fifteen Glendale merchants, the former reported, only four of whom had already ordered a supply of firecrackers for July Fourth. Mayor H. G. MacBain, however, reported a list of a dozen merchants who have ordered various amounts of fireworks.

Art Association's Program Excellent

One of the most delightful features of the program arranged by Mrs. Alexander Mitchell for the meeting Sunday night of Glendale Art association was the artistic work done by Alma Geiger Phelps.

Mrs. Phelps played two selections by Ernest R. Kroeger, "Impromptu" and "A Character Study," displaying her wonderful interpretation and marvelous technique. These Kroeger numbers were specially fitting on the eve of the opening of Glendale Eisteddfod, for Mr. Kroeger, famous composer, organist and pianist, was adjudicator in 1906 at the Welsh Eisteddfod in Canton, Ohio, and chairman of judges at the 1915 Eisteddfod in San Francisco. Liszt's 'Tarantelle" and "Venezie e Napoli" were also beautifully rendered by Mrs. Phelps.

JAP EXPERT SEES FRIENDLY SPIRIT

Economist Says Food Supply Influences Relations Between Countries

By BEN G. KLINE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—Food, population and international relations are all closely interrelated in the mind of Issa Tanimura, Japanese live stock economist who has just arrived in this country as special food commissioner for the prefecture and city of Tokyo.

"When I was a little boy," he said to the writer, "I used to quarrel with my sister if she got a bigger piece of cake than I did. I didn't quarrel if she had a nicer kimono than mine. Germany started the war because of food pressure on a rapidly growing population. Japan's population has outgrown our food resources. This creates a very important problem for us to solve."

Tanimura-san, gray haired but youthful and original, is unique among Japanese. To prove he is so it is only necessary to mention that he has a 2000-acre live stock ranch in a country famous for its tiny paddy fields and that he remains single in a country where marriage and the rearing of a son and heir are all important. He creates his own jobs, which is why he likes them, probably.

Economic Expert

After studying live stock economics for three years at Cornell university, he became interested in the growing tendency of his own countrymen to depart from the traditional diet of rice. He proposed that meat be produced in Japan on land unsuitable for rice culture. The emperor granted him a large ranch for experimental purposes and he was sent to America and Europe several times as live stock commissioner. But he found the possibility of stock raising in Japan was limited by land conditions and the people's ineptitude for the work.

"We want to exchange our commodities for food from other countries," he said. "We need substantial foods for our workers. We need more fats. We are interested in corn, the great American staple, and other grains, as well as meat. I shall ask American manufacturers if they can prepare foods suitable to the Japanese taste and manner of eating. I shall go to Europe to study the question."

Better Relations

Mr. Tanimura has given considerable effort in Japan to the betterment of American-Japanese relations, always being ready to assist visitors in meeting officials or business leaders or to help them study Japanese customs. He sees in his present mission possibilities in the same direction.

COPYRIGHT SUITS OVER RADIO IDLE

No Efforts Being Made to Push Them In Court; Adverse Decision

By ROBERT MACK
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Suits brought to determine whether a radio broadcast rendition of music is a commercial performance lingering on dockets since the battle of a year ago between the broadcasters and the music publishers, probably will not be fought out in the courts.

It was said today that since the decision in Cincinnati recently in which Judge Julian W. Mack, of the United States circuit court of appeals, reversed an earlier opinion and held that a radio performance is strictly "public" and therefore commercial, the defendants in similar suits have made no preparations to press appeals.

One suit on which an appeal already is pending, however, is the action brought against WGY, Schenectady, by the Jerome Remick Publishing Co., the plaintiff in the suit against station WLW, in which Judge Mack's decision was given.

To Highest Court

The case against WGY may be carried to the United States supreme court for a final ruling as to whether musical scores, the copyrights to which are held by the society of composers, authors and publishers may be played or sung for radio audiences without payment of the fees demanded by the society.

In Judge Mack's ruling, it was held that although radio broadcasting was not known when the copyright act was adopted, it nevertheless was the intent of the framers of that measure to protect the copyright under all circumstances. A radio performance, although it may be given privately in a lonely room, it was held, is directed to a large and scattered audience and is therefore "public."

Despite the fact that Washington for two days last week was the hottest city in the United States—a fact that usually means bad radio conditions—several reports of Pacific Coast reception have been noted. KFI, Los Angeles has found its way into a number of receivers. KOA, at Denver, also has maintained a consistent record in the capital.

MELODRAMA NEXT GATEWAY PICTURE

Lois Wilson And Noah Beery In 'Contraband' To Follow 'Paris Dressmaker'

"The Dressmaker From Paris" is showing the last times today at the Gateway theatre. It tells the story of a carnival of youth, romance and gorgeously gowned feminine beauty. The cast includes Ernest Torrence, Leatrice Joy, Alan Forrest and Mildred Harris.

The program for Wednesday will include the usual vaudeville features and the Alan Crosland production "Contraband."

Director Crosland, who has many fine screen productions to his credit, has made a rattling good picture out of Clarence Budington Kelland's melo-dramatic novel, "Contraband."

To the strong story is added a powerful cast and that combination is certain to keep the average film audience on the edge of the seats.

Dramatic Adventure

For those who are not familiar with the story, it will suffice to say that "Contraband" deals with the comic, romantic and dramatic adventures of a girl who inherits a bankrupt newspaper in a small town. She discovers that the town is being used by a gang of rum-runners as a base of operations. She tries to break this liquor ring up and runs into a lot of trouble.

Lois Wilson is the girl and Raymond McKee is the young professor who forgets his academic training and tendencies long enough to fall in love with Lois and help her clean up the town. Noah Beery, Raymond Hatton, Charles Ogle, Victor Potel, Edward Davis and Cesare Gravina are particularly effective in their respective roles.

ROMAN GRAVE

CASTOR, Eng., April 28.—A Roman grave, believed to be 1600 years old, has been unearthed here by a ploughman. The grave was built of oolite and limestone slabs, measuring twenty-nine inches at the head and twenty-seven inches at the foot.

MISS LLOYD HIT IN CURRENT PLAY

Dobinson Players Present 'The Wonderful Thing'; Actress Featured

"The Wonderful Thing," now at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre, is the versatility, alluring charm and altogether loveableness of Miss Doris Lloyd, English actress, who as lead of the talented Dobinson Players is attracting drama lovers from many southland cities to Glendale.

Jacqueline Laurentine, a very vivacious, decidedly Parisian, young French-American heiress, is the character about whom Lillian Trimble Bradley built the plot for "The Wonderful Thing." It is Miss Lloyd's dramatic finesse in the creation of Jacqueline that makes the play another Playhouse success and one that is sure to draw crowds during the week.

Miss Lloyd came to Glendale with a brilliant background of successes in more serious drama in England. Glendale has found in her not only the more serious side, but a penchant for the ever popular comedy, the dramatic magnet that draws American theatre-goers. In "The Wonderful Thing" Miss Lloyd has opportunity for all the emotional talent that is hers. She is the first effervescent young French girl, whose confusing American-tinged vocabulary wins the hearts of not only her audience, but of Donald Mannerby (Joseph McManus), who marries her for her money in order that he might save his family's name.

McManus Well Cast

Next we see Miss Lloyd as the charming wife, somewhat confused in the family home of her husband. And finally in the scene where the realization comes of the fact that her husband has married her for her money, Miss Lloyd proves herself capable of dramatic work that would win her laurels from the most exacting audiences and severest critics.

Joseph McManus as Donald Mannerby shares honors with Miss Lloyd. Mr. McManus is also a favorite with Playhouse audiences, and in "The Wonderful Thing" he is seen in a part for which he is well fitted.

The satisfying feature of the casts picked by Mrs. Florence Dobinson and Fred J. Butler, director, for Playhouse productions, is that every member is talented to the point of creating character with study and sincerity.

Others in Cast

This week there are Fannie Yantis, resident of Glendale and well-known professional, whose presentation of Angelica Mannerby, the eldest daughter, is superbly done; Richard Ehlers as Laurie Mannerby, the younger son, a part which affords him wide range for splendid dramatic interpretation; Mary Isabelle Alspaugh and William H. Stephens, both favorite players, who are again praised in their parts as husband and wife; Ann Lockhart, who was so popular in the last two plays, and who plays the part of the mother of the old school in a delightful way; Joe M. Cox, whose characterization of a professional gambler is as finely done as any of his previous work; Thyra Ruhland, as another Mannerby daughter; James Worsley as the butler, and Charles O'Malley as O'Dowd, watchman, all of whom do fine work.

Long Island furnishes the setting for the four acts of the play, which is one of intense interest from first to last curtain. During intermissions there is a program of enjoyable music by the Glendale trio, Gladys H. Lott, pianist and director; Hedwig F. Sharkey, violinist, and Antoinette Frederiksen, cellist. Mention should also be made of the stage and lighting effects, created by L. Ruggles, A. Weatherbee, W. H. Mentzer, C. L. Wallace. Joe Cox is stage manager and technical director.

The next attraction at the Playhouse will be the farce comedy, "The Naughty Wife"

MISS SHEARER ON COSMO PROGRAM

'Waking Up The Town' On Screen Of Glendale's Newest Theatre

Florenz Ziegfeld, famous New York theatrical producer, endeavored to prevent Norma Shearer from appearing as leading lady opposite Jack Pickford in "Waking Up the Town," according to Harry Gerson, manager of the Cosmo theatre where the picture is now showing.

Miss Shearer is one of the most promising young actresses on the screen. She was born in Montreal and as a youngster went to school there. And when she grew up she decided to go on the stage—she and her sister. They went to New York. And that's where the Ziegfeld part of the story comes in.

Armed with a letter from a very close friend to Mr. Ziegfeld who was also a very close friend of the Shearer family, the girls went direct to the famous producer's office in New York.

And when he asked them if they wanted to go into the "Follies," they said "No." Ziegfeld, of course, was astounded and after closely questioning the girls found they were suffering from a combination of homesickness and stage fright.

Western Feature

This was especially true of Norma, who would have made an ideal beauty in the Ziegfeld chorus. Although the producer had a number of conferences with them and offered them an unusual opportunity, they declined, and in the end departed, but not for Montreal. Instead they decided to take a fling at the movies.

Miss Shearer's first appearance in pictures was as an extra in Christie Cabanne's production of "The Stealers," three and a half years ago. Besides this feature, the Cosmo also is showing Bob Custer, the new western star, in "Flashing Spurs," a stirring drama of the western plains.

Custer in the role of Barry Stuart dashes through the picture with leaps and bounds, proving himself a crack shot, a finished athlete and an exceptionally fine actor.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

If you would know Glendale and realize its growth, take a stroll about the town and set your pace so that you may enjoy the beauties not only of nature, but of the architecture and physical improvements being made.

For a fact in this age of speed with the motor car one cannot appreciate in the fleeting instant just what is happening, or rather has happened in this pleasant vale which twenty years ago was nothing but a barley field, dotted with orchards and a few homes.

Today a city has arisen, almost every building of modern construction, and a residential section featured by the bungalow type of construction which lends itself to the hillsides without marring their magnificence.

And standing as signal towers the spires of the Presbyterian, Congregational and Catholic churches, among others, are mute evidence of the spiritual life in the community. Then the sentinels of business, such as the Lawson building, Maryland hotel, Security Trust and Savings bank, the new Glendale hotel, which is a revelation in itself, and other new buildings bespeak the commercial future held forth to Glendale.

The schools, particularly the Union High school group, the new Glendale Sanitarium, the other public improvements, also are fine to review in the mind's eye after a series of walks through Glendale's tree lined streets.

By the way, one of these little walks brought the gossip to the writer that the new Maryland hotel has been so well patronized that a forty-three room addition is contemplated to its thirty-nine rooms. That is proof conclusive that the new Glendale hotel will also be a popular place when complete.

Soon the city will have theatre seating space, also, for all of its residents who desire to attend. And parks are soon to be made available, not to forget the proximity of Griffith park, Los Angeles, which gives promise of being the world's finest.

Yes, Glendale of today is a very different place than the Glendale of yesterday and one who has seen it grow cannot help repetition in saying so. More homes, more people, more business in constant cycle will continue to make—

Glendale, the fastest growing city in America.

GLENDALE SCREEN FEATURE LAUDED

Popular Movie House Has Cinderella Type Of Silent Drama

Though there are some who will argue that the Cinderella type of story is not true to life, there are none who will deny that stories of this sort are always delightful to hear, and that occasionally, fact is stranger than fiction.

Thus, if after seeing "Beauty and the Bad Man," showing for the last times tonight at the Glendale theatre, one feels that it is a wee bit too fairylike to be true to life, consider that this makes it not less entertaining, but rather more so. After the huge dose of sordid themes which producers have been pouring down the throats of audiences, it is rather refreshing to find a picture that deviates from the every day occurrence, and makes the unusual its theme.

Phantograph Novelty

"Beauty and the Bad Man" with Mabel Ballin and Forrest Stanley is the story of a fulfilled ambition. Supporting the two stars is a wholly capable cast including Russell Simpson, Edna Mae Cooper, Andre de Beranger and James Gordon.

The Phantograph, the most unusual novelty on the stage at the present time, is being shown the last times tonight in conjunction with the feature picture. And on the stage is also Roe Reaves, "the kid glove kidder," lately featured in the Ziegfeld Follies, the Music Box Revue, "Kid Boots," "Big Boy" and others.

GLENDALE SANITARIUM AND HOSPITAL

Tonight at 7 o'clock the Sanitarium orchestra will give a concert in the parlor of that institution. An interesting program has been prepared. The orchestra will be assisted by Mrs. Irving A. Steinel, soprano, who will sing a group of her husband's latest songs.

Last Saturday night the guests enjoyed an Ampico recital on the new grand piano recently given the institution by Dr. Henry Harrower. Miss Leta Fisher of San Fernando sang two groups of songs.

E. G. Fulton, business manager; James Howarth, treasurer, and James Voris, credit manager, of the Sanitarium, left yesterday for San Diego where they will attend a three-days' efficiency council.

Many complimentary letters have been received by the Sanitarium in regard to the concert recently broadcast over KNX. It is planned to put on another program in the near future.

CALIFORNIA FRUIT

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—A 30 per cent increase in fresh fruit shipments by the California Fruit Exchange this year is predicted by John L. Nagle, manager. Nagle estimated 7000 growers will contribute shipments of 5000 carloads, with a value of $25,000,000.

Dr. Dowler Protests Dog Tax Legislation

Editor, The Evening News:—I note with much surprise in Saturday's News an item to the effect that imprisonment for debt has been made a part of California's criminal code through enactment of a local ordinance. It was probably an oversight that the reactionary bunch who passed such a measure failed to include shooting at sunrise for failure to pay a dog tax.

This legislation is undoubtedly unconstitutional, and if Glendale had to pay a few damage suits it might have a salutary effect in minimizing future legislation of this character. The promoters of such ordinances should be banished to the solitude of their real estate offices and never permitted to hold another public office.

Such "promoters" are of the type who vote for vaccination of dogs, cats and English sparrows because the serum trust needs the money and the rake-off is inviting. Sweet Land of Libertee, What crimes are committed in thy name!

"I take it to town every day and have a man to drive it for me.

"This regular, comfortable, dependable, ever-ready transportation costs me an average of $9 per month (I live 13 miles out of Los Angeles). No depreciation, no interest on capital invested, no oil, gasoline or repair expense.

"When I drove my motor car the same distance every day, it cost me $52 monthly—more than $600 a year—Pretty costly 'carfare'!

"Yes and I save more than money. Now I save the 'nerve strain' of driving through congested traffic, the worry of delays.

"Instead I read my paper and relax after breakfast and before dinner at night which has improved my digestion 100%.

"I'm not so tired. I work better and feel fit for evening fun.

"I get regular daily exercise—voluntarily walking three or four blocks to and from a more distant corner than I need to reach to get my Red Car—that has made me feel like a new man. Before, I never walked anywhere and was sluggish and dull.

A ROOF measured in years!

THE final cost of roof can be measured in terms of years only. The maintenance cost, for the entire life of the roof, plus the initial cost is what counts.

Because Pioneer Yosemite Asphalt Shingles go right over the old roof and because they do give years of trouble-free service their final cost is amazingly low Crushed stone, from Yosemite, in red, green, blue black and golden brown, laid over asphalt, endows these shingles with enduring beauty, unyielding durability and final economy. Boy Plays Hookey To See Dry Raiders Work

BALTIMORE, Md., April 28.—Playing "hookey" from school to chase the fire engines has no thrill for Morris Gordon, 13. Morris discovered it's much more fun to chase the prohibition agents.

When Mrs. B. Haversham, truant officer, went to discover the reason why Morris was continually absent from school she found him in the office of L. G. Woodward, a prohibition agent. The boy, he said, had been attracted by a dry raid and since then had appeared at his office regularly.

The fact was brought home to Morris that his ambition to be a raider must be deferred.

"Oh say can you see—

By the dawn's early light What so proudly we hailed At the twilight's last gleaming?"

AMERICA—your America—calls to you for help. An invading army is ravaging her lands. The red glow of the marauder's torch lights her evening skies and the roar of flood waters echoes through her valleys.

Within the last ten years the loss in the United States from forest fires alone has been more than one hundred million dollars. Denuded mountain sides have thrown great flood waters into the valleys, devastating crops, tearing homes from their foundations, washing out bridges, inundating towns—adding many more millions to the appalling loss.

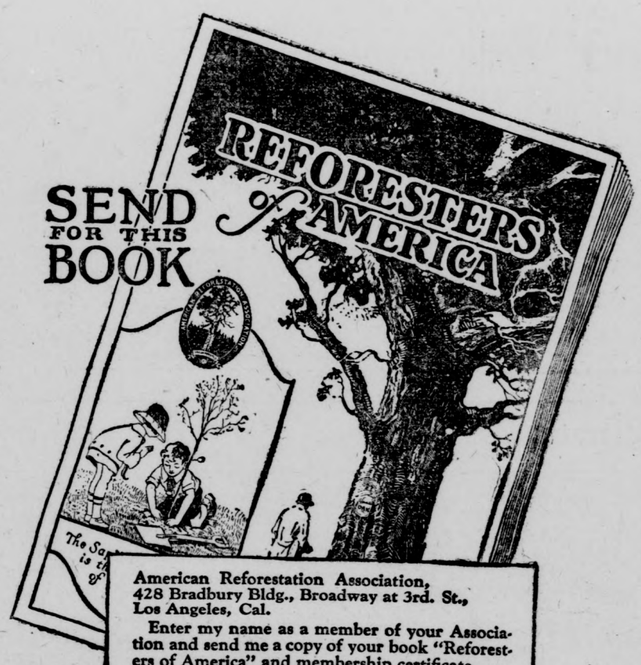
Robbed of its leafy shade and its reservoir of fungus and moss, the seepage of spring water from America's great water sheds is decreasing year by year. The specter of water famine leers more threateningly. The streams and lakes, the life-giving blood of hydro-electric power, are sinking lower every year.

Time for talk has passed. America calls for volunteers—patriots, who will lend their hearts and hands in her defense against the common foe.

During recent years a few forward-thinking patriotic men have given the greater part of their time toward organizing "a national army of defense" against deforestation, which threatens in time to destroy America's very life. Their only remuneration has been the satisfaction from unselfish work well done.

An association has been formed—non-political, non-partisan, non-sectional and non-profit—known as "The American Reforestation Association." This association lists on its Advisory Board many of the foremost men and women of American national life—including: Edward E. Ayer, Civic Leader, Endower of Field Museum & Newberry Library, Chicago; Ellsworth Bethel, Pathologist, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, State Museum, Denver, Colo.; Luther Burbank, Horticulturist; W. E. Colby, Secretary, Sierra Club; Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, Surgeon-General, U. S. Public Health Service; Francis Cuttle, State Board of Forestry, California; Chas. Davis, Pres. National Highway Association; Douglas Fairbanks, Douglas Fairbanks Picture Corporation; W. R. Fraser, Gen'l. Mgr., Harold Lloyd Corporation; W. B. Greeley, U. S. Forester, Washington, D. C.; Ansel F. Hall, Chief Naturalist, U. S. National Park Service; Sidney R. Kent, Gen'l. Mgr., Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, New York; John Steven McGroarty, Author, "Mission Play"; Walter Mulford, Pres. Society of American Foresters; Hon. Gifford Pinchot, Governor of Pennsylvania; Julia Ellen Rogers, Author of "Trees" and "The Tree Book"; Joseph Schenck, Pres. Association of Motion Picture Producers; Mrs. John Dickinson Sherman, Pres. General Federation of Women's Clubs; Dr. Hubert Work, Secretary of the Interior; and many others.

These men and women are lending every possible assistance toward furthering this movement. The wheels of this great machine are now turning to bring the message of this vitally important movement to the people—to you—and to employ the most expert help in working out practical plans for the accomplishment of its purposes.



Sympathy, co-operation, money is needed. You can do your bit by becoming a member of the American Reforestation Association—NOW. Two dollars, with the coupon below, brings you a copy of this new $2.00 book "Reforesters of America," and a dollar membership in the Association. The annual dues are $1.00, or as much more as you feel you are able and willing to give.

"I didn't know—I guessed. It's my guess I've been testing. I couldn't make the other pieces fit into the puzzle, there was always some out about them all. I fell back on motive. What motive had somebody for burning Hannibal Hurst's will? That somebody, I felt sure, was the person who had shot him. Everything, as I saw it, turned on that will. Which would it have injured—wife or daughter? At first, what with the glove and the man's voice and the quarrel I thought that either the daughter or Von Eulen was guilty. Somehow, in spite of her confused story on the night of the murder, I believed Mrs. Hurst innocent. Breitman, by the way, did not agree with me. Then when I found, through her letter to her brother, that she was in some way connected with the group of anarchists we were tracking, I confess for a time I suspected her. It took your story, Mr. Graham, to put me straight again. Then I went back to motive. Anger—greed—love—which? Anger was a possibility to be considered. Miss Hurst in a fury—well, you've seen her in a fury! Greed? No. For Von Eulen, I discovered, was enormously rich. But Denis did not know that—Denis, with his extraordinary adoration of Miss Hurst and his delusion about his dead child. There was a motive—love. The strongest motive of all. Anger or love, I said to myself—which? I had to be sure."

He fell silent, watching the actors in the tragedy he had staged.

"Come, come, Mr. Flint!" called Estelle impatiently. Denis she waved imperiously toward the door.

He turned obediently away, and tottered down the room till he reached it—clung to it. As if he were casting himself at his master's feet, he sank to his knees.

"Mr. Hannibal! Mr. Hannibal!" they heard his wail.

Graham held his breath, listening. He had an uncanny sense of a voice, unheard of all save Denis, answering. To the others the only sound which broke the silence was the beating of the rain against the windowpanes—a gentler rain now, almost musical in its beating. The storm would soon be over. The poetic and mystical Celtic strain was dominant in Graham tonight.

"Listen!" he whispered to Evadne, who had stolen to his side. "Do you hear the rain? It is God's rain sent to wash his poor soul white."

It was the great-grandmother in him, of course, who spoke, triumphing momentarily over the prose and practicality of her progenitors. Tomorrow he would blush self-consciously to have uttered such a thought, but tonight, and to Evadne, he whispered it unabashed.

Denis' clinging hands were loosening their hold on the chair. Flint crossed the room quickly and bent over him. Nobody else moved. Silent, they all stood waiting. After a moment, Flint looked up.

"Will somebody, you, if you please, Miss Smith, go down and tell the men who are waiting that they will not be needed now?"

The rain no longer beat upon the panes. The storm was over. Moved by some vague impulse, Graham flung wide the curtains which darkened the windows, and a pale ray of late sunlight stole in, disputing feebly with the glare of the electric lamps. But into the darkened windows of old Denis' mind the light, please God, was streaming brightly.

Interstate Highway To Be Rushed To Finish

SACRAMENTO, April 28.—Steps toward completion of the interstate highway connection with Arizona at Yuma have been taken by the state highway commission when it opened bids for construction of 9.39 miles of the Imperial Valley trunk line near Brawley.

H. G. Fenton of San Diego was the lowest bidder with an offer of $98,754 to complete the work as compared with the state engineer's estimate of $138,367. Award of the contract probably will be made at the meeting of the commission in San Francisco, April 15.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S LITTLE SUNSHINE

"Where are you going, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy in the hollow stump bungalow one morning. The rabbit gentleman was putting in his pockets a number of toys, such as jumping jacks, tops, marbles, a little train of cars and a funny automobile that ran this way and that way when you wound a spring on the side.

"I am going over to see Baby Bunny, the little rabbit girl," answered Mr. Longears. "She is visiting Joie, Tommie and Kittie Kat, and I am taking these toys to amuse the animal children. I must study how to amuse children," went on the bunny, "for I will soon have a number of little rabbits to look after."

"How is that?" Nurse Jane wanted to know.

"Well," went on Uncle Wiggily, sort of looking sideways at his pink, twinkling nose. "I am going to marry Mrs. Jump, a widow lady rabbit, and she has some little rabbits of her own—how many I don't know. But after I marry her and she comes here to live with the small bunnies, I shall want to know how to amuse them. So I am going to practice now."

"But what is to become of me if you get married?" asked Nurse Jane, sort of sniffling like, sadly.

"Oh, you will stay right on here and help me amuse the little rabbits!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "Have no fear." So Nurse Jane had no fear and the bunny uncle hopped over the fields and through the woods to the home of the Kat family. But before he reached there it began to rain, since it was the month of April, and many showers of water fell from the skies.

"But no matter. Rain or sunshine, I am happy," sang Uncle Wiggily as he thought of Mrs. Jump and the little bunnies who would come to live with him. After many years as a bachelor, Mr. Longears was going to be married.

Down poured the rain as the bunny gentleman reached the Kat house, and pressing their little noses flat against the windows, were Tommie, Joie, Kittie and Baby Bunny.

"Oh, ho. Why so sad looking, my dears?" cried jolly Uncle Wiggily as he hopped in.

"We are sad because it rains, and we can't go out to play," said Baby Bunny. "Why didn't you bring a little sunshine, Uncle Wiggily?"

"Hum. I never thought of that," chuckled Mr. Longears. "But see, I have brought you many toys." From his pockets he took the ball, the marbles, the jumping jack and other playthings.

"Mew. Mew," cried Kittie Kat, and her brothers said the same thing, while Baby Bunty clapped her paws, for they were no longer sad because it rained. They played with the toys.

But even toys will not keep animal children amused very long on a rainy day. Soon they pressed their noses against the glass of the windows, and sighed and cried to go out and play. But the rain pelted down and they could not. Then the animal children became cross and were fretful and banged the chairs around and looked unhappy.

"Oh, dear. If the sun would only shine," mewed Mrs. Kat. Then Uncle Wiggily looked from a window and cried.

"I see a little sunshine."

"Where?" asked Baby Bunty.

"Out on the lawn,' replied Mr. Longears. "Wait, I'll bring it in."

Quickly he hopped out into the April shower, and when he returned he had something gleaming yellow in his paw. "Here is my little sunshine," he said.

"That! Why, that is only a dandelion flower!" chied Baby Bunty.

"Yes, but it is golden yellow, and looks like sunshine," said the rabbit gentleman. "Let's pretend that it is sunshine." So he tickled Baby Bunty under the chin with the dandelion, and made her laugh, and when she laughed Tommie laughed and when Tommie laughed Joie laughed. So they were all laughing together and they were sad no longer because of Uncle Wiggily's little sunshine. And then, in a short while, the real sun dried up the rain and the animal children went out to play.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

DIET IN CHRONIC AND ACUTE BRIGHT'S DISEASE (Part 2)

I'll give you a resume of the diet in the acute stage of nephritis:

For three or four days there is no food at all allowed. Sometimes even water must be limited. Then, fruit juices and fruit purees for a day or two; then milk and gruels. The diet is increased gradually to normal. Some physicians do allow milk right away after the first fast.

As I told you yesterday, acute inflammation of the kidneys most often follows the acute infections of childhood. This danger to the kidneys, with the danger from pneumonia and to the heart and ears are the chief reasons why you should not expose your children to the children's diseases. It's a very pernicious fallacy that children are going to have these infectious diseases anyway and the younger, the better. The truth is that they don't necessarily have to have them, and the older they are if they do contract them, the greater are the chances for their recovery.

Chronic Bright's Disease

Chronic Bright's disease may last for many years, so obviously we cannot keep this type on a fast or on the very limited diet we do in the acute Bright's disease. Rather we have to see that all of the body needs for foods are supplied. Because most of the protein wastes of the body are eliminated by the kidneys, we have to be very careful that there is no excess protein in the diet, but, on the other hand, we have to be careful that there is not too little. One of the faults of the older treatment of chronic Bright's disease was that through the fear of protein, the diet was kept too low in that food. The consequence was that all of the organs suffered, for tissues being protein themselves are made and repaired by the protein element largely. So we have to learn that in our efforts to spare the kidneys we do not injure the other organs.

Naturally in chronic Bright's disease, the kidneys are weakened. We not only have to spare them excess protein, but we have to spare them excess work that would come from eliminating waste products from overeating in general. We have to spare them the irritations which would result from condiments (spices, mustard, excess salt, vinegar, etcetera); the irritation from alcohol and nicotine, and possibly tea and coffee.

We must see that the diet contains a preponderance of alkalinizing foods, so starchy foods (except potatoes), sugars, flesh foods, eggs, bread, cereals, and prunes, cranberries and plums (they have some benzoic acid which may irritate inflamed conditions), and rhubarb and sorrel (they have a small amount of oxalic acid), must be taken in moderation, for all of these leave an acid residue in the body. We must be particularly careful about the use of salt, and use it only in the smallest amounts.

Plenty of water should be taken to dilute the normal waste products. Constipation should be avoided by the inclusion of some bran or agar or mineral oil. The skim must be kept active by moderate exercises and by daily warm baths followed by cool water if the reaction is good), so that it does its share of eliminating. All other measures for health, such as sleeping in well aired rooms, being in the open and sunshine as much as possible, adequate sleep and rest have to be practiced. That's all I can think of now. Oh, yes, of course we always have to think of mental control, the cultivation of poise, by not allowing the small misfits of life to worry beyond their desserts.

A little more about the diet. As far as meat is concerned, it is not thought now that red meat has any more waste products than white meat and many physicians allow a small amount of meat in the diet of the chronic Brighter. The glandular organs such as liver, kidney, sweetbread, etcetera, because they have a higher content of purine bodies (one of the protein products which may be irritating) may prove irritating.

There is no reason why a chronic Bright's disease sufferer should find his diet monotonous. If meat is not taken—and it is not necessary—cottage or other cheeses (but not the strong ones), nuts and soy beans, can be used. They also have the complete protein necessary for the body cells.

Let me warn again against overeating. Holiday feasts have popped off many a man (and woman) with chronically inflamed kidneys in the prime of life, "apparently perfectly healthy."

Frantic Bride: "For Goodness' sake please tell me how to get the brown scorch stains off my glass baking dishes."

Answer: Hold the dish under running water and rub with steel wool (which you can buy in inexpensive packages at any hardware or grocery store.)

Mrs. H. H.: "It would be interesting if some of our column sisters sent in their old-fashioned recipes for Head Cheese."

Answer: Indeed it would be. Let us hope that some of them will not find it too much trouble to send them to me, in care of this paper, to be published.

Mrs. W.: "Can solid cakes of soap be made from left-over bits of toilet soap?"

Answer: No, but soap-jelly can be made of them as follows: Shave the scraps of soap finely and measure. Add to them an equal measure of boiling water, also adding one teaspoon of borax with every pint of water used. Mix well and set aside to cool. It will then form soap-jelly, which is splendid to use in washing clothes.

Reader: "Is there any preparation that will set the color in red and also in green sateen?"

Answer: Yes. These preparations are called "mordants." The fabric should be soaked in its proper mordant for several hours, then hung in the shade without wringing and allowed to drip dry. After this, wash as usual. For Green soak in a solution made by dissolving four ounces of alum in a tubful of water. For Red the proper mordant is made by adding one tablespoon of ox gall to each gallon of water. For Blue, use one cup of vinegar to each gallon of water. For either Brown or Pink, or Gray, use one cup of salt and one tablespoon of alum to each gallon of water. For Purple or Lavender, use one tablespoon of sugar-of-lead (Poison) to each gallon of water. For Black, dissolve one cup of salt in each gallon of water, using ample water to cover. For Plaids, Checks and Figures, add these four ingredients to each gallon of water used: One tablespoon of alum, one tablespoon of sugar-of-lead, one cup of table salt and one-half cup of vinegar. In all of these solutions, use cold water.

Chapel Wedding

Christ chapel, Switzer-land, Switzer's camp, was the picturesque setting Sunday morning, April 26, 1925, for the marriage of Miss Mildred Pray, daughter of Mrs. Emma T. Pray of 368 West Milford street, and Charles Maddox also of Glendale. The selection of the chapel for the ceremony was of special significance, for it was there that Miss Pray and Mr. Maddox met last June, when members of a party from Glendale Outing club attended the dedication of the edifice, designed by the architect of the Mission Inn, Riverside, and standing on a promontory overlooking the mountain distances.

Judge Robert H. Scott of Los Angeles, a friend of the Pray family, was the officiant, performing the double ring ceremony. There were present besides the bridal party, Mrs. Emma T. Pray, Miss Nellie E. Pray, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lambert, Miss Inez Lambert, Chester T. Nye.

Miss Pray wore for her marriage a gown of white crepe de chine, with Brussels rose point collar, and picture hat of white. Her bouquet was of Ophelia butterfly roses, lilies of the valley and maidenhair fern. She was attended by Miss Janet Perkins of Glendale. The bride's maid wore fawn colored silk, with picture hat. She carried pink and lavender sweetpeas and fern. Roy Blodgett of Glendale was best man.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Austin, hosts at the camp, served wedding breakfast in the rustic dining room. As Mr. and Mrs. Maddox entered the wedding march was played, with applause from the many week-end guests at camp.

Mrs. Maddox, who is a talented pianist and organist, came to Glendale nine years ago from Woodsville, New Hampshire. She is well known in musical circles in Glendale and Los Angeles. She has been a member of Glendale Music club, MacDowell club and other organizations.

Mr. Maddox has lived in Glendale for a year and a half. He formerly lived in Kingman, Arizona, where he made his home after returning from overseas duty during the World war. He was a naval aviator. At present he is a member of the clerical force at Glendale postoffice. He is a member of the Masonic lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. Maddox are spending a few days at Switzer-land, and will later spend some time in the San Jacinto mountains before returning to Glendale. They are to reside for the present at 368 West Milford street.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

ANSWERED LETTERS

M. M. G. A.—A psychologist would likely trace your habit of hair pulling to a hidden cause in your subconscious mind; however, the cure for it should be simple enough—just suggest to yourself, as you go to sleep, that you intend to rest perfectly and awake in the morning after a night of refreshing and dreamless sleep; stop thinking of the dream and the habit, and instead concentrate on a restful and dreamless sleep. If your suggestion does not cure you the first time, do not give it up, but go on each night until you break the habit. You probably suggest hair pulling to yourself every time you go to sleep—without being conscious of having done it, so supplant that suggestion with the cure for it. A man of thirty-eight years with a height of five feet, four inches should weigh about 145 pounds.

E. A.—You can purchase household ammonia at any grocery store. It is not as strong as that sold by the drug stores, but it will do to mix with peroxide for bleaching superfluous hair.

S. A. S.—Consult your doctor about the network of fine veins under the skin. There is some condition in your circulation or with the walls of the veins that cause the trouble.

"Worried"—It is hardly possible that you could reduce the size of your upper lip, but it will be less noticeable if you stop thinking about it, as that makes you self-conscious and causes you to do things with your mouth which will make it more conspicuous. A full mouth is not objectionable, and is often very attractive as it denotes generosity and other fine characteristics.

Peggy—The only way to keep your silk frocks from being discolored where they touch the skin is to go over the places occasionally with a cleaning fluid. Most silks will stand careful laundering, and if not that, there is always the dry cleaning that usually leaves a frock looking as if it were new.

Miss E. B.—There is nothing to be done to reduce the size of the bust when a girl is going through the developing period. Many other girls are like yourself at the age of sixteen years, and after a few more years of growth the bust is no longer noticeable, as all the body has come into correct proportions.

Anxious—Consult the doctor about your health as stray gray hairs at sixteen years of age must be due to some nervous disorder. A few such hairs coming occasionally merely show that these hairs have died and lost color, so there is nothing to do about it but to pull them out.

Tomorrow—Well-Kept Hands

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

SPACE IS ADDED TO BEAUTY SALON

Alterations Completed At Webb Department Store Give Needed Room

Recently-completed alterations has added much needed space to Webb's beauty salon, which now occupies most of the mezzanine floor at Webb's Department store. This will allow for the installation of special new equipment made necessary by the rapidly-increasing clientele. Included in this will be the latest method of Nestle's Lanoil permanent waving.

The growth of the beauty shop since its inception two years ago has been remarkable. Dr. Harriett Hillings is more than grateful for the splendid patronage which has rewarded her efforts and is constantly endeavoring to improve and add to the service of her popular daylight shop.

The balance of the mezzanine floor at Webb's will be occupied again by the circulating library after May 1. This will be an added attraction to this popular store.

The perfume and toilet goods section on the main floor is now under the management and supervision of Dr. Hillings, who will endeavor to carry a most complete selection of this class of merchandise.

Magnolia

Executives of Magnolia P.-T. A. have devised a novel scheme for augmenting the treasury. At the meeting at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, they are to hold an apron social, every one attending being asked to contribute as many pennies as there are inches around her waist. Mrs. W. C. Leash announces that there will be election of officers.

Wilson

Wilson Parent-Teacher association is to send the president, Mrs. Arthur Franklin, to the state convention in May at Fresno, it was made known at the association meeting yesterday at the school. Mrs. H. H. Harris, parliamentarian, conducted a parliamentary drill. The nomination committee named includes Miss Carrie Noble, chairman; Mesdames H. H. Harris, Morgan, Bessell and Brant. Mrs. Myrtle Buckman, chairman of better films for Glendale Federation, was a speaker. There were songs by Mrs. C. L. Viereck, accompanied by Mrs. Littlefield; and songs by thirty-six boys of the school. The room count showed Miss Gould's room winner. There is to be a benefit bridge and five-hundred party next Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Arthur Franklin, 1332 East Wilson avenue.

DANCERS IN SPOT ON ORPHEUM BILL

Mosconi Brothers And Verna Thrill Keith Crowds With Fast Steps

You can never say you have seen dancing until you witness the Mosconi brothers with their sister Verna, at the Orpheum this week. There will be no question in your mind why these fast and furious whirlwinds were featured in "Ziegfeld's Follies." And the way the three brothers treat their sister is a shame but she seems to like the rough going and always comes up smiling.

And when it comes to singing those coon songs, there is the one and only, Margaret Young who sings those "mean low down" melodies which she has made so popular on the phonograph. She is aided by Neuman Fier at the piano.

Why the management places one of the best acts of the bill to finish the show is unexplained but it seems that this week's program has so many headliners it had to be. The act referred to is Walter Davison and his "Louisville Loons" who play, sing, and chatter to everybody's satisfaction.

Harrold Held Over

Alfred Latell brings down the house as Bonzo, the world's greatest animal actor. Although a curtain raiser the stage hands were worried to death about getting the asbestos back in place again. Charles Olcott and Polly Ann make a hit with their original songs. The telephone number is especially good. Eddie Lambert aids Charlie and Polly.

Paul Morton and Naomi Glass do some nifty foot work and their present vehicle called "The Straphangers" is bubbling over with clever lines.

Lee Ryan resembles youth as it is while Ben Price makes you look at old age as it will be. They have a neat act and keep everyone in good humor for twenty minutes. Held over for the second week are Orville and Patti Harrold, who continue to delight with their beautiful voices.

A Lancashire library has banned Winston Churchill's war book.

HOLLYWOOD NEWS OF SCREEN STARS

'Tony' Moreno Touring Over Europe; 'Bunker Bean' To Be 'Shot'

By MARIAN MARSHALL
For Southland News Service

HOLLYWOOD, April 28.—News letters received by friends from Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Moreno indicate that Europe has taken kindly to its prodigal son—and that he has taken kindly to Europeans.

He has acquired three proteges since his arrival over there three months ago. In other words, the baker-boy is going to help others as others have helped him.

Tony's first find—and perhaps it was his wife's find—was a little French girl dancing in a Montmartre district cafe, who is said to be a natural pantomimist as well as having a bewitching personality. She will be a star of first magnitude some day, the Morenos believe.

Young Irishman

Then a young Irishman with an armful of scenarios has attracted himself to the Morenos, while a Portuguese artist who has designed a number of unique sets for European productions has also been added to those whom Tony will aid to develop in America, it is said.

During a respite from the filming of "Mare Nostrum, Mr. and Mrs. Moreno were honor guests at a brilliant fete in Hotel Ruhl, Nice, France. The film celebrities were judges of a Spanish shawl contest, there being 160 entered by the assembled guests.

Now for a little chatter around the studios. "Bunker Bean" is to be filmed by Warner Brothers with Matt Moore as the featured player. As soon as Bill Beaudine gets away from the Mary Pickford lot, where he is directing "Little Annie Rooney," he will handle the megaphone for Moore.

Evelyn Brent not only has been acclaimed the most beautiful actress on the screen in England, but along comes Australia now and acclaims her in similar terms. She gained her great popularity in English films, which explains why she is a valued star in F. B. O. circles.

"Lightnin' " Finished

John Ford at the Fox studios completed the screen version of the late Frank Bacon's "Lightnin' " this week. Jay Hunt has the title role. Reginald Barker has been added to the Fox force of directors, is another news item of importance.

Creighton Hale has an offer to return to his first love, the British Isles, for a long term of film production. He must make his choice soon whether or not to desert Hollywood. Methinks he will stay.

Marie Prevost and Kenneth Harlan, one of screenland's pair of married stars, are working together on the Warner lot, their vehicle being "Bobbed Hair." Incidentally "Bobbed Hair" is a story by twenty authors. Alan Crosland is directing.

the program last night to visit the Eisteddfod art exhibit on North Brand boulevard, open every afternoon and night during the week under the direction of Mrs. Roy A. Ballagh.

Ben Pearson, president of the Eisteddfod movement in the state, told of Eisteddfod's conception as a California institution last year at Oxnard. More than fifty communities are participating in contests this year, Mr. Pearson said, with the promise of 150 for next spring.

"Glendale is doing a big part in the development of the finer arts among the young people. The city is to be congratulated," he said.

Reception Committee

A large reception committee headed by Mrs. Frank C. Ayars, met the audience at the door of the auditorium, welcoming them to the contests. Others on the reception committee were: Mrs. Homer Jones, Mrs. C. A. Thompson, Mrs. C. P. Lane, all of Burbank, and Mrs. F. A. Beach, Mrs. A. A. Barton, Mrs. P. O. Lucas and Mrs. James H. Searles of Glendale.

Mrs. Dan Campbell acted as hostess to members of the judging board and their wives. Ushers, students from the high school, were Carolyn Ayars, Catherine Browne and Lucile Beach.

The later program, opening at 8:15 o'clock, will be presided over by A. L. Baird, chairman of the Glendale District Eisteddfod, with Mrs. George Lyons as chairman of the reception committee. Competition will be held between the service clubs of the district and between the quartets of the Glendale and Verdugo Hills posts, American Legion. Special exhibition dance and violin numbers will also be given.

Tomorrow afternoon the violin contests will be held in the Van Grove studio, 337 North Brand boulevard at 4 o'clock. Judges will be Henry Schoenfield, director of the Women's Symphony; Arthur M. Perry, and R. M. Staples, well-known violin instructor.

Tickets for single concerts will be 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children. Season tiskets for all concerts are being sold for $1.

Elks' Lodge Takes In Nine New Candidates

Nine candidates were initiated into Glendale Elks' lodge at the meeting of that organization last night at the Elks' clubhouse, East Colorado street. Initiatory work was exemplified by officers of the lodge headed by Gerald A. Dockeray, exalted ruler.

Glendale Elks will observe Mothers' Day with a special program in the lodge rooms next Monday night. Ritualistic work will be given.

Plans for the regular monthly dance, to be held Saturday night, May 23, were completed at the meeting last night. Following the business session entertainment was furnished by Sol Hoppe's trio, the Swiss Tyrolean quartet and Hi Myers, singer, accompanied by Edwin J. Albright.

DEMPSEY PLANS OFFICIAL VISIT

Commissioners To Receive Social Call, According To Rumors Today

BULLETIN

NEW YORK, April 28.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, was assured today by the New York Boxing commission that there would be no objection to a Dempsey-Wills fight.

Chairman James A. Farley stated after Dempsey had appeared before the commission, which recently suspended him for his alleged failure to accept the challenger's defi, that Dempsey had been assured no objection would be raised in any official quarter to the match and that the champion was free to go through with any fight for which he might contract.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 28.—By way of limbering up for the rigors and privations of an European trip, Jack Dempsey will step ten fast minutes to an official decision of the New York state athletic commission today. It will be a return bout, the commission having gained the newspaper verdict on the prior occasion when it banished the champion to the outer darkness for his neglect to accept the challenge of Harry Wills.

Dempsey will visit the commission accompanied by Tex Rickard or so he said as late as last night. The commission has received no official notice of Dempsey's appearance at its meeting and the law says a man can change his mind.

If Dempsey proceeds with his intended visit it will be purely in the guise of a social call, but the commission has ideas of its own about the amenities and their observance. Being of sound mind, and an inquisitive one, it is likely to ask this question at the outset "Will Dempsey fight Harry Wills and if so, when?"

Same Old Answer

From years of repetition, the writer has come to know the Dempsey-Kearns reply verbatim. They will fight Wills, Gibbons or anyone. Their business is fighting. When will they do it? Just as soon as a responsible promoter makes an offer that is acceptable. Why isn't Wills' challenge accepted? Well, you will have to ask Jack Kearns about that. He does the managing. I do the fighting.

Frankly, the visit has no other object than to have the commission take the curse of its banishment off Dempsey without putting the champion to the inconvenience of fighting anyone. The hottest tip of Broadway at this moment is that Dempsey has no intention of returning to the ring until 1926 if at all.

Will Visit Europe

For one thing he has definitely decided to visit Europe on a honeymoon with the fair Estelle, even going so far as to set May 5 as the date of departure. He will remain abroad anywhere from six weeks to two months, depending on what may develop here.

Rickard, it is understood, has been commissioned to keep an eye on the situation here and will cable Dempsey to return if and when such a course seems advisable. It is said that neither Dempsey nor Rickard anticipates that the action will seem advisable. They understand each other perfectly.

Harry Wills may get his chance some day, but it is my guess that it will not be with Rickard as the promoter.

Fighter With Only One Eye Is Facing Ban

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—Kid Norfolk, the eastern colored boxer, today faced a ban in California, the state boxing commission ruling that because Norfolk is partially blinded in one eye, he cannot fight in this state. Norfolk was to have mixed with Ray Pelky of California in Oakland.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Rumors that the ragged play recently exhibited by the Brooklyn Nationals was traceable to reports the players had received that Manager Robinson was to be deposed, now that Chas. H. Ebbets is dead, were met with this statement today by one of the McKeever faction of stockholders, who hold 50 per cent of the stock to 50 per cent held by the Ebbets interests:

"Manager Robinson is in charge of the Brooklyn club and we see no reason why the team should not be run under his management exactly as it was before President Ebbets passed away."

While there may be a fight between the stockholders in time, because of family quarrels that have been in evidence for two or three years on the part of one 50 per cent faction of stockholders, there is no disposition on the part of the McKeevers to interfere with Robinson.

Steve McKeever, who travels with the club, and who makes it his amusement and play thing, and directly after Ebbetts died that the Brooklyn club was for Robinson, and that going along without him would be committing baseball harakiri.

Steve has been wrapped up in Uncle Robby ever since he has been associated with him as a stockholder, but it is said that Edward McKeever, the other brother, really is the controlling and advising partner, and that he will remain such now that Ebbets is dead.

The executive business in regard to handling players and directing the policy of the club always had been left to Ebbets, in spite of the fact that there were disagreements, because his knowledge of baseball was far greater than that of the McKeevers, who got into the game primarily because Ebbets wanted their financial support and their influence in the section of Brooklyn in which they lived.

While the Brooklyn team was not expected to run away with the National league championship this year, there are some fans who think it should have won more games than it has, and a double defeat by the Phillies set every baseball tongue in Brooklyn wagging. It was bad enough to be defeated by the Giants, especially this year when there is bitter feeling toward the New York club because of the O'Connell episode of 1924, which Brooklyn by some process of reasoning has hit upon as one of the reasons why Brooklyn did not win the pennant.

The fans in Brooklyn have long suspected that the affairs of the club were not being conducted with the utmost harmony and since Ebbets' death and the laggard pace set by the team, the idea that harmony can only be restored by a change of management has gained ground.

The fans are not in sympathy with one of the owners, who offers much public comment regarding the playing of the games, although chances are that much of it is said in fun.

Brooklyn fans are so wrought up over their fine pitching staff and the good hitting of the team in spots that they can't see anything but a "look in" for the pennant, and they are ready to start all sorts of surmises the moment the team sags.

Hollywood High Tank Stars Win Dual Meet

Coach Clyde Swendsen's Hollywood High school swimming team defeated the Pasadena High school team 51 to 35. Ray Kenison starred for the Hollywood team, winning the 50-yard dash and the 100-yard dash. Johnson of Pasadena scored most of that team's points. He won the 100-yard breast stroke race and finished second in the 100-yard free style and medley events and ran third in the 50-yard dash.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP by FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, April 28.—Gene Tunney is back from the west looking big as a house comparatively speaking, but strong as a bull and hard. It is not likely that he will weigh less than 186 pounds when he steps into the ring against Tommy Gibbons next month. At present he tips the beam at over 190 and he says he never felt better or more confident to wade through a hard bout.

There is talk that both Tunney and Gibbons will surprise those who are looking for conservative actions from two conservative boxers.

Of course, one has to discount the bragging of managers but even so there may be something in Eddie Kane's statements that Tommy will go right after the ex-marine and make every effort to stow him away.

But if Gene will only get over his fear of brittle hands he is not unlikely to jump in and try to take the play away from Gibbons. No one is more courageous than he, mentally or physically.

Looking Tunney over, the writer could not find a mark to show for the American light heavy champion's long ring career. But in this respect he has nothing on Gibbons. Both men know all the ins and outs of the ring game and the bout could be quite a colorless one with both men watching each other closely and calling on every trick of the game to offset the leads of the other.

On the other hand, with Gibbons ready to do as his manager says he will, and with Tunney as bellicose as he was against Carpentier, the fight could well be a merry one.

Johnson started out for a perfect game, getting strikes in the first six frames. He left one pin standing in the seventh frame for a spare. He made a strike in the eighth and again in the ninth, and visions of a 299 game loomed. In the tenth frame he left two pins standing on the first ball, and blew his second shot to end the game, 243. FRY'S PHYSICAL FACTS

XII—More on Swimming

After a person becomes used to floating he can try pulling the arms through the water from the overhead position, using the hands paddle fashion until they reach the sides of the body. A fresh breath of air can be taken during the stroke, as the action of the arms and hands helps to buoy up the body during the pulling part of the stroke, but the supply of fresh air must be taken before the arms are lifted out of the water to begin a new stroke, as the weight of the arms in the air will sink the body when the lungs are empty.

The arms can be returned to the start of the stroke by slowly moving them through the water with the hands turned edgewise so as not to offer much resistance to the forward motion of the body. The legs can be held straight as it is not necessary to use them until further advanced in swimming, when other swimmers can be watched and a knowledge of the scissors stroke can be gained and easily learned with a little practice.

Another easy trick that will help a person to be at home in the water, is one where the person stands in water up to the waist, takes a deep breath, holds it, then doubles up forward and clasps both arms around the knees.

The face will be about one or two inches from the knees. When the feet leave the bottom of the tank the whole body will be submerged for about one second, then the air in the lungs will cause the body to rise to the surface, leaving the back of the head out of the water as long as the breath is held. To come out of this position, just put the feet straight down until they touch bottom and stand up straight. This trick is called the dead man's float and will teach a beginner how to get his or her feet under him or her and be able to touch bottom in water up to the neck.

Women should not be made to laugh while learning to swim, even in shallow water. Women have lost their lives from becoming hysterical because someone caused them to laugh by tickling or ducking them, thinking at the same time that they were enjoying a hearty laugh while they were swallowing enough water to drown. Overcome the fear of the water first and learn to swim afterwards.

WALKER TO MEET COOPER IN BOUT

Welterweight Championship At Stake In Battle at San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, who meets "Lefty" Cooper, San Francisco's best welterweight, in a ten-round decision contest at Ewing Field on May 16, will be in San Francisco not later than May 1 to train for the contest. Cooper, his opponent, is a southpaw and made his ring start in Sacramento, coming to San Francisco, where, in a short space of time and by some good ring work, managed to work his way to a battle with the world's champion in a year's time.

Cooper has been doing his preliminary training at Myrtledale Springs under the watchful eye of "Moose" Taussig, who has conditioned several world's champions for their important contests. He returned to San Francisco last week and will finish his training at the ocean beach outdoors.

Walker will be the first legitimate champion to engage in a decision contest in California since the game was voted out more than ten years ago. James L. McLaughlin, who has erected all the important fight areas throughout the United States, including Boyle's Thirty Acres for Tex Rickard in Jersey, is erecting the local arena which will be bowl-shaped and have a seating capacity of 33,000 people. All seats will be elevated, giving the fans a clear view of the ring.

LOCAL RHYMESTER WINS POET PRIZE

J. W. Pearson, South Brand Boulevard, Successful In Liberty Contest

James W. Pearson, 715 South Brand boulevard, is receiving the congratulations of friends today upon his prowess as a poet. Some weeks ago Mr. Pearson's poetic muse was challenged by a prize contest in Liberty magazine. The magazine, as one of its weekly features, prints four lines of a five-line nonsense verse, leaving the fifth line blank, and offers a total of $500 in prizes to the five contestants who submit the five best lines completing each week's verse.

The limerick of four weeks ago inspired Mr. Pearson with what he thought was a winning idea. He sent it in, and the forthcoming issue of Liberty contains the proof of his skill as a rhymester. He figures as fourth prize winner in the contest of four weeks ago, and under the terms of the contest, will shortly receive the fourth prize of $50. His friends are urging him to complete his record by winning the first prize, amounting to $250 in one of the forthcoming contests.

Huffman is no longer a member of the navy and intends to step along fight row for a bunch of bouts in the future.

BICYCLE CALLED HEALTH BUILDER

J. F. Matthews, Local Dealer, Recommends Riding As Enjoyable Sport

That bicycle riding is one of the most healthful as well as an enjoyable sport for a boy or girl, is the contention of J. F. Matthews, proprietor of the Great Western Cyclery, 113 North Maryland. This concern has made special preparations for "National Bicycle Week," April 26 to May 2.

Mr. Matthews has been in the bicycle business for the past 14 years—12 years in Los Angeles and 2 years at the present address in Glendale. This store has the exclusive agency in Glendale for several high-grade makes, including Columbia, Rambler, Cleveland, Rollfast, Crown, Winchester, Ranger, Pope, Indian and California.

The importance of service was stressed by the proprietor. "We sell as cheaply as anyone on the Pacific coast and carry parts of all kinds, giving free service on every wheel sold," he said. This, it was pointed out, is just one more reason why people should buy at home, rather than in Los Angeles or some other city where service is out of the question.

$43,000 Residence Is Sold For $93 Cash

NEWPORT, R. I., April 28.—The sum of $93 for the purchase of the Lodovina Boiani residence here, valued at $43,000, was not an unfair or unreasonable price, according to a ruling by Judge Sumner.

The residence was disposed of at a sheriff's sale. Miss Boiani petitioned the court to declare the sale null and void.

The structure was purchased by Raymond B. Wilson, Jr., and Willard M. Petey, prominent business men, June 23, 1923.

RUM-RUNNING FLYER NOW HUNTED

Glendale Police On Lookout For Phantom Aircraft 'Seen' Over Valley

Stories reaching San Fernando police authorities to the effect that a phantom airplane, believed to be an illicit liquor carrier, is flying nightly over towns of the upper valley, put Glendale police in the lookout today for the alleged booze smuggler of the skies.

If it be true that an airplane is being operated between the Mexican border and a secret landing place in the upper San Fernando valley, then the plane supposed to be carrying large stores of liquor, is passing over Glendale. The jurisdiction of the Glendale police department extends indefinitely into the air over the city, Chief of Police Fraser pointed out today, and anyone carrying liquor in an airplane is as liable to arrest on a transportation charge as one carrying bootleg in an automobile or in his hip pocket.

Air Police On Job

Alf Gilhausen, aerial policeman at the Glendale airport, said that he was keeping a sharp outlook for suspicious looking planes in this vicinity and was prepared to give chase to any that might appear to be liquor smuggling ships.

According to San Fernando police, the phantom ship has been seen more than a dozen times, flying high over the valley. Once it is said to have swooped down, just over the head of a farmer in the district who was returning home after sundown.

Police advance the theory that the plane operates with a crew of liquor smugglers, bringing the illicit liquor from Mexico to a secret spot in the valley, from whence it is transported by truck.

Coolidge Keeps Silent On Hindenburg Victory

from heads of governments all over the world. From strictly a technical standpoint, Hindenburg is entitled to similar courtesy, for he has now been made the head of a theoretically friendly state.

White House Silent

While the White House and state department preserved silence concerning the transition in German affairs, official Washington as a whole, taking in cabinet officers and interested senators, continued to view the German situation today with entire equanimity.

Neither Secretary Mellon nor Secretary Hoover, both keen observers of foreign affairs, see any cause for alarm in the election of the old field marshal. The chief drawback, as they view it, is that the superficial opinion of Europe probably will be that the Monarchists again are in the saddle, and this will create a situation of diplomatic uneasiness throughout Europe.

Analyze Figures

On the other hand, these officials point out that a close analysis of the election figures reveal that instead of Hindenburg's election being a monarchical triumph, it really was a defeat for the Nationalists polled a minority of the votes. And, undoubtedly, it was said, many of those who voted for Hindenburg did so more through fear of Communism than through love of the old Monarchist crowd.

The effect on Germany from an economic standpoint will be more beneficial than otherwise, according to these economic authorities.

ROUNDTABLE CLUB SHAPING POLICY

Noon Luncheon Meet Given Over to Discussion Of Future Work

Program activities of the newly formed Glendale Roundtable club were informally discussed at a meeting of that club today noon at the Harriett Mae tea room. The Knights of the Roundtable will meet at the office of L. T. Rowley, one of the members, at the Board of Education headquarters on South Brand boulevard.

With the resignation of Harry V. Adams as vice-president of the club today, it was voted that a nominating committee, yet to be named, will bring in suggestions for the offices of both first and second vice-president of the club. There will be a committee appointed also to frame by-laws before the meeting Friday night.

Dentist Speaks

Dr. A. G. Loomis, dentist, spoke to the Roundtable members on care of the body, particularly stressing the need of correct diet. The soundness of man's mind depends largely upon the soundness of his body, Dr. Loomis said, and the soundness of his body is directly dependent upon the kind of food he eats.

Entertainment numbers were furnished by Miss Mary Barlow, whistler. Dr. L. L. Craven, president of the club, presided.

CIVIC BODY TOLD OF HIGHWAY PLAN

Advancement Society Hears Glendale Avenue 'Cut' Will Boost Traffic

The opening of a short 1200 feet link of road, connecting South Glendale avenue with the main road along San Fernando road into Los Angeles, will do much to increase traffic along Glendale avenue, J. F. McClish declared in announcing to members of the Glendale Advancement association today noon that a petition is now being prepared for the signatures of property holders in the section, asking that the street be cut through. The cut will shorten the road to Los Angeles for persons living in the eastern part of Glendale by a considerable distance and will induce much traffic now using Brand boulevard and other streets to follow Glendale avenue, he said.

School Bond Issue

Herman Nelson, secretary-treasurer of the Advancement association will represent that body at a meeting between members of the Glendale city School Board and officers of civic organizations tonight at the Glendale Intermediate school, when the matter of a school bond issue again will be taken up.

Deeds for the widening of North Glendale avenue its full length will be rushed since the announcement that a scenic Crestline drive will be cut through the hills in the event that territory is annexed to Glendale. The new scenic drive will connect with North Glendale avenue, Mr. McClish, one of the originators, told the advancement folks.

President C. W. Ingledue presided at today's meeting which took place at the Harriett Mae tea room.

CLUB PLANS WORK ON TRAFFIC LAWS

Dr. Henry R. Harrower Tells Of Need for Stricter Enforcement

More concise regulations on right-of-way for traffic will be sought by the Glendale Exchange club through the assistance of the Automobile Club of Southern California, it was decided at the meeting of the Exchange club held today noon at the Masonic temple. The matter was brought before the club by Dr. Henry R. Harrower, who spoke on the possibilities of serious accidents where motorists fail to observe the proper traffic regulations.

Miss Grace Barr, educational representative of the Victor Talking Machine Co. spoke on music. O. F. Paseman gave a craft talk on flowers and flower marketing. Carl Christy reported on the attendance contest. President William Baker presided at the meeting. The attendance prize, donated by Frank Salmacia, was won by W. R. Vanderwood.

Lockwood spoke on American Forest week. Pete Neese outlined plans for the Service club bowling tournament, which starts tonight. Two teams are entered by the Exchange club.

German Communists Hurl Hindenburg Defi

BERLIN, April 28.—The Communists in an open letter today suggested a "twenty-four hour general strike" by the "union of the entire proletariat on the occasion of Hindenburg's entry into Berlin."

An open letter to the newspaper Rote Fahne and addressed to the Socialists, charged them with treason. It was taken by political observers as a move publicly to throw blame for the election defeat on the Socialists.

NEW YORK CLOSING

By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service

NEW YORK, April 28.—Industrial stocks displayed considerable strength in the stock market today, and trading was marked by the establishment of some new high prices since the decline of last week, as well as by the marking up of new high prices for the year by a few of the most active shares.

The market was dull and inactive around the noon hour, while the traders were digesting the cabled reports of the British chancellor, who announced that the embargo on gold exports would be lifted at the end of the year, while the Bank of England is authorized to begin exportation of the yellow metal at once.

The speculative sentiment was improved by the decisive manner in which the bears had been put to rout in the high price specialties and industrials since Monday's opening.

A decline in call money rates to 3½ per cent and expectation of a strong earnings statement by United States Steel were also in favor of the bulls.

Interest was largely confined to the motor and industrial stocks, with occasional spurts in the railroad and copper stocks, the latter reflecting the expected benefits of the curtailment in copper production. Mack Trucks and Maxwell Motors led the activity in the motors with General Motors making a good response to the continuance of the 6 per cent dividend rate on the common stock.

After reaching higher prices, Seaboard Air Line, Frisco and other active railroad shares lapsed into inactivity, the bulk of railroad shares never appearing on the tape. In this respect they were fitting companions of the oils, which had one of the most inactive days of the year, Marland, Phillips and Mid-Continent sold at fractionally higher prices in the early trading and then disappeared from the scene for the balance of the session.

Utah Securities advanced 4½ points, to a new high at 88, in the lead of the utility stocks. Industrial Alcohol lost most of its late gains on reports of a capital reorganization in which new stock will be offered to stockholders. Davison Chemical was active and fairly strong and Congoleum recovered a part of its recent losses. Most of the specialty stocks which have been conspicuous in recent trading also joined the inactive class.

United States Steel, Baldwin, American Can and other active industrial stocks led a moderate rally in the last hour, in the course of which stocks sold up to the highest prices of the day. Baldwin sold nearly 6 points above its opening price. Opening Steel common was up a point; Savage Arms up 3; Coca-Cola made a new high at 102½; Maxwell "B" made the highest rice on the recovery at 79½; Cast Iron Pipe rose 8½ points, to 156; General Motors was up 1, at 74. Industrial Alcohol regained its early losses. Railroad stocks, oils, coppers and specialties were inactive in this period, which was also signalized by a spurt in grain prices, with wheat closing 5c a bushel higher.

Stock sales, 804,900 shares; bonds, $12,157,000.

MARKET SUMMARY

LOS ANGELES, April 28.—With total transactions of $206,000, the bond market easily was the feature of the opening session of the week on the Los Angeles stock exchange. Not only was the investment market active, but the strength it has displayed for some time continued. Public utility issues, as usual, were in good demand.

The March operating income of the Santa Fe lines amounted to $2,071,000, as compared with $2,150,000 a year ago, according to reports over the brokerage wires of E. Hutton & Co.

California gasoline stocks decreased in March 9,450,00p gallons, to 297,000,000 gallons.

Coca-Cola yesterday declared a regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on common and a regular semi-annual dividend of $3.50 on preferred.

RETAIL BUSINESS SHOWS BIG GAINS

Merchants' Trade During Last Month Exceeds Same Period 1924

By J. C. ROYLE

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The retail merchants have done a wonderful business so far this year. The volume of retail trade of the country last month exceeded that of the excellent year of 1924 by six per cent and the peak apparently has not been reached in the first three weeks of April. Profits of the leading establishments have grown in greater ratio than the sales. The most up-to-date merchandisers freely attribute this trend to advertising. Publishers here for their meeting this week have fully recognized this attitude.

There have been exceptions in the business trend. The above could not have been proved otherwise. Those exceptions in most cases were found in territory which either was affected by special local conditions or among merchants whose advertising fell off either in volume or selling power. The advertising of "sales" in nearly every section has brought out the largest volume of spring buying ever witnessed in this country.

Buying Power There

Of course the buying power is there, but the public has undoubtedly been put in a better buying mood by advertising. The volume of business this month is now sure to come close to the record breaking business of last December when the holiday season stimulated buying to a remarkable degree. The volume of advertising has involved heavy additional expenditures, but the results have made full compensation.

The extent of the increase is plainly shown by the figures in New York and other merchandising centers. In this city, papers in the last month showed a gain of 567,758 agate lines of advertising as compared with the corresponding period of 1924, rising to a total of 14,751,474 lines. The gain in Philadelphia was on an even higher ratio with a total of 8,058,917 lines as compared with 6,317,081 a year ago. Houston, Birmingham, Oakland, Indianapolis, Buffalo, St. Louis, Detroit and Chicago also showed heavy increases. New Orleans led the list with a gain of 775,265 lines to a total of 3,887,203.

Newspapers Gain

The gain for 134 papers in 30 major cities aggregated 2,581,603. The volume of business done so far this month shows that the total volume of advertising in April will exceed that of March. Some losses were recorded, the heaviest of which was 1,164,548 lines suffered by Los Angeles papers.

The increase in volume of business was not confined to the department stores. The thirteen leading mail order and chain store organizations showed an advance of over 12 per cent in their sales as compared with the corresponding period in 1924, with aggregate sales for the month of $78,841,621. Woolworth's percentage of increase for the first quarter was over ten per cent. Sears Roebuck reported more than 15 per cent gain and Montgomery Ward recorded 9.4 betterment as compared with 1924.

Outlook Good

There is every evidence from the present state of industry and business activity throughout the country that the retail establishments will show a more than fair sized improvement over last year for the next six months at least. This feeling is heightened by the prospect for a fair agricultural year, by the volume of construction already contracted for and by the extent of employment in manufacturing lines.

A considerable proportion of the added profits of both manufacturer and retailer is held by experts to be due to the accurate forecasting of business conditions which has become a part of the policy of every modern business executive.

Kaiser Hears News

News of the Hindenburg victory was conveyed to the former kaiser on the Island of Doorn, his place of exile, early Monday morning. There was a stir of activity following the arrival of several visitors, but if the deposed ruler was gratified he carefully refrained from allowing that viewpoint to reach the public.

The intimate plans of the president-elect continued to be cloaked in secrecy today, particularly with regard to possible appointments.

The office of secretary of state seemed a subject for misinterpretations abroad. The correct title for the position discussed is "under secretary of state," which is not a cabinet post, but a sort of a personal adjutantship to the president. It would correspond to secretary of the president in the United States.

Son Gets Job

This man will be appointed by the chancellor and confirmed by the president. He will be chief of the president's office and have charge of the ceremonial arrangements. He is an administrative, not a political official.

It is considered probable today that Hindenburg would name Lieutenant-Colonel Von Feldmann, who was one of his chief campaigners, as his choice for under-secretary. Von Feldmann is known to be most friendly to America.

The marshal's son, Major Oscar von Hindenburg, is expected to move with his father to act as his military adjutant.

DEATHS - FUNERALS

DANIEL KELTY, SR.

Funeral services for Daniel Kelty, sr., who died suddenly early Monday morning, April 27, 1925, at his home, 464 Ivy street, will be held at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the chapel of the Jewel City Undertaking Co., 137 North Orange street. Rev. Ernest E. Ford, pastor of First Baptist church, and a brother Rotarian of Mr. Kelty's son, Daniel Kelty, jr., will officiate. Interment will take place in Grand View Memorial park.

In the death of Mr. Kelty Glendale loses a long-time resident and loyal citizen. Mr. Kelty was born July 28, 1851, in Dover, Delaware. In 1906 he came to Glendale, where he built the third house west of Central avenue, on Ivy street, where his death occurred. He was a brick contractor, until retiring a few years ago.

Mr. Kelty had been in apparent good health recently. On Sunday he spent the day at the beach, and retired at night in his usual good health. His death occurred peacefully in his sleep during the early morning hours.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Kelty; a son, Daniel Kelty, jr., of 1708 North Highland avenue, member of the hardware firm of Cornwell & Kelty; a daughter, Mrs. Mary Baxter of 462 Ivy street; and a son, George C. Kelty of Pittsburgh, Pa., who recently spent several weeks with his father and mother in Glendale.

FRANCIS LABADIE

Funeral services for Francis Labadie, one-time theatrical star, well-known lecturer on dramatic and literary subjects, and world traveler, who died Sunday, April 26, were held at 10 o'clock this morning at Holy Family Catholic church. Interment took place in Forest Lawn Memorial park. L. G. Scovern, director.

MRS. DOROTHY P. TAYLOR

Mrs. Dorothy P. Taylor died this morning, Tuesday, April 28, 1925, at her home on Pennsylvania avenue, La Crescenta, at the age of 31 years. She was a native of Sedalia, Mo. Surviving her is her husband, Clarence Albert Taylor. Mrs. Taylor's body will be shipped to Kansas City, Mo., by Durr & Son for funeral and interment.

MASCULINE LINES STYLE HIGHLIGHT

Novelty Found In Colors Employed In Fashions For Fair Sex

By AILEEN LAMONT

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Unquestionably the novelty of the tailored mode this season lies not in design, since that follows rather accepted masculine lines, but in the colors employed. Heretofore, the blacks, blues, grays and other somber colorings, were employed. Now they are being made in the flashiest and brightest shades, and some French designers expect to see the pastel colorings employed before the summer is over. For the moment checks are the thing.

A coat with an evening frock seems incongruous but the London designers have not found it so. Many evening gowns now are being completed with coats of open work gold lace, chiffon or georgette. Some have sleeves, others are sleeveless or with flowing arm draperies. Some of the detachable trains and sleeve draperies discarded when dancing slip on like a coat.

Three Toned Shoes

The eohippus, or three toed horse, was popular thousands of years ago but today his popularity has been usurped by the three toned shoes. In addition to toes of one colored leather and counters of a second, shoes now have heels and appliques of still a third. The single strap seems definitely to have replaced the multiplicity of fastenings used for so long.

"All in one" is the way the newest corset is described. But it may be all in all to the woman of slightly stout figure, since it is cincture and brassiere fashioned in one garment without any break at the waist line. For those who deem it necessary there is invisible boning over the abdomen.

Fleets Wait Decision Of 'Warfare' Umpires

the bombing planes of the defense poured a rain of trouble upon the invaders.

Admiral Coontz, Major-General Hines and a staff of experts acting as umpires will sit aboard the U. S. S. Seattle in the grand critique which will officially settle all arguments now raging among the officers and men of the American armada.

Outstanding today in the discussion of the great war game was the importance of control of the air.

In the maneuvers just ended, which began Sunday night when Admiral S. S. Robison, commander-in-chief, sailed in from the midnight seas out of a ten-day radio silence and unleashed a theoretical hurricane of shells at the Oahu defenses, probably the key of all activity rested with airplanes.

On both sides many airplanes were shot down and destroyers lost by both the "blues" and "blacks" in an effort to determine if successful aerial attack may be carried on from aircraft carriers.

Dr. Harrower Talks At Meeting Of Lions

Dr. Henry Harrower, recently returned from a European trip, will be the speaker at the regular meeting of the Glendale den of Lions tomorrow noon at the Harriett Mae tea room. Dr. Harrower's address will prove both interesting and educational, it is predicted. Miss Center, an operatic singer, will provide the musical part of the program. There will be an attendance prize, it is announced. C. A. Suiter is at the head of the committee in charge of tomorrow's luncheon meeting.

WORK INCREASES

DETROIT, April 28.—Industrial employment here has increased 4449 in the last week and now totals 232,068 as against 235,358 a year ago. Then, however, employment was dropping. Now it is rising.
